The anticipated explosion has exploded, but my, what a mild and muffled pop. Few expected it would be Bill Klepper himself who stepped out of the Portland Beaver family—a clan which hasn't been getting along too serenely the past months—and certainly not so quietly. The split was expected by some, for Klepper made the mention not too long ago that (1) either he was going to buy out George Norgan, the big boss, or (2) Norgan was going to buy out him. The reason wasn't began's Lucky Lager beer, either. So it's Norgan who did the buy-ing and the general facelifting promised last summer has now begun in earnest.

Whether Field Skipper Mary Owen is also on the list remains to be seen, but it's just as good a bet that he is as one which says he isn't. New faces are due, for with the departure of Klep-per goes the last man in the organization who is a baseball man, one who knows the game inside and out. Surely someone with as keen a knowledge will be brought DON WILSON in, perhaps someone who has a direct tieup with a major league club. Since the Beavers and their ofispring, our town Senators, are sorely in need of rebuilding, a relationship with an expansive-minded and talent-laden major chain would be most likely.

The new man or men, if ever and who ever they may be, had best be good Class B diplomats also. For Klepper, along with Van-couver's Bob Brown and Prexy Bob Abel practically ran the Western International all by their lonesomes,

Might Be Hasty If You Count 'Em Out Now

Taking a 44-6 slugging in your first game certainly isn't the proper christening for a successful season, but it's still too early in the semester to be selling Willamette's Bearcat short. After all, the San Joses were advertised as nothing short of a terrific outfit which would take a back seat to no eleven on the coast. They lived up to the ads against the WU's. Getting spanked by such as that isn't a disgrace. It has happened before. We recall a prewar year when the 'Cats were equipped with such stalwarts as Al Walden and Teddy Ogdahl, and some 50 other pretty pert footballers. That club, one of Spec Keene's best, took a shellacking from a poor Idaho club, 33-6, but then bounced back to mop up on the Northwest conference cousins. The 33-6 kayo didn't by any means ruin that season for WU. And somehow we believe the 44-6 start for Walt Erickson's men just isn't typical of the season they'll have.

Fistic Maestro Tex Salkeld, sincerely worried over whether local fight faithful are believing "ringer" at the Duane Hoag-Jackie Paul natural for October 9, insists those same faithful be assured Paul is also the same featherweight who sails under the name of Paulie Cook. In other words, the guy has fought under two different names in his ring career. The conventional "so what" should be inserted along here somewhere, for whether the guy's name is Alexander the Great No. 3 or plain Pete the Tramp, folks who saw him belt with Hoag in their spring outing here know he can handle his dukes

The Long Road Home—and It Was Long!

Sorties: Longest football road trip of the season? That ride home from Los Angeles for OSC's Beavers, Brother! 'Tis only about 800 air miles from LA to Corvallis, but to Lon Stiner & Co. it must have seemed more like 10,000, by slow mule The annual jockeying in the neighboring Williamette Valley loop by those coaches who dislike the favorite's role is now on, but whether he likes it or not just about everyone in the loop pegs Don Wilson and his Molalia Indians as definitely the team to beat, Stayton, Dallas, Mt. Junior Grid Picture Clears

STARR FRUIT CO.

With the first game of the season less than two weeks away Coaches Bob Keuscher at Leslie and Bob Metzger at Parrish are getting a fairly definite picture as to who will make up their squads in inter-school play. Both mentors have been putting their charges through rugged sessions in fundamentals with plenty of scrimmage on the side.

Keuscher, this week, is stressing blocking. Both the Missionary skipper and Assistant Harry Mohr feel that their lads are making fair progress. Keuscher has a pair of capable quarterbacks in Ralph Blakely and Gene Garver, both 140 pounders. Kenny Lawrence has impressed with his clusive running and Jim Moore with his line plunging abilities. Buck Williams and Du-

At Parrish, Metzger and Line Coach Leonard Warren yesterday sent the Pioneers through scrum and punting drills. Dale Olson, halfback and George Frederickson look to be effective ball-toters along with Deb Davis. In the line Tom Soderman, pivot man, and Guard Mel Taylor show promise.

Under the two-team system. Keuscher's team meets Metzger's lads Oct. 9 at Leslie, with Mohr's aggregation tussling with Warren's on Oct. 10. Each squad will play one game a week for six weeks up to the City Title game the night of November 22 at Sweetland field.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.-(AP)-Usually after a big fight the pushing, milling mob outside the dressing room door waiting to congratulate or condole a ring warrior or ask "Was it a right or left that was the finisher?" is held at bay by burly, perspiring cops for five minutes or so while the fighter is given a chance to have his wounds dressed or regain his faculties. So it was quite a surprise when the door was opened wide and everyone was permitted to troop in after Tony Zale, particularly since, judging from his appearance, it would take hours for him to regain his faculties and have his multiple wounds dressed.

For if ever there was a beaten fighter who won, it was Tony Zale. Physically beaten, that is. It was unbelievable that a man taking the punishment he was taking could come back round believable he could summon enough strength to knock out a more youthful and less battered opponent. You had to see the Gary, Ind., champion in those moments to realize fully the glory of his triumph. Here was no Joe Louis, fresh and alert after an easy victory. Here was a man, savagely battered, leg and arm and body weary beyond words, buoyed only by a stoicism and a fighting heart which would not permit him to quit; who by sheer fortitude had outlasted a fighter in the prime of elastic youth. In brief, here was a champion, as anyone who saw the nearly six rounds of caveman fighting would agree, and his defeated opponent, Rocky Graziano, unwittingly acknowledged it by the blithe manner in which he accepted defeat.
