Disability No Bar to Their Full-Time Jobs

The full time, regular jobs performed by the two disabled men pictured above exemplify employment for handicapped persons which is being stressed this week in the Salem area in conjunction with the nationwide "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week." David W. Porter, 356 Union st., is shown at left checking parts and accessories in the parts department of Herrall-Owens garage, 235 S. Commercial st. Loss of an eye while serving with the 40th infantry during the Philippine campaign has not kept him from earning a comfortable living. Nor did facing a life in which he would be unable to walk deter Russell Smith, Jr., (right) 226 Gerth ave., West Salem, from learning to make his own way. Through the state rehabilitation department Smith trained eight months as an apprentice watchmaker in Albany, then set up his own shop in West Salem nine years ago. Today he employs two other men besides working from his own wheel chair, is married and has a new home. (Photos by Don Hill, Statesman staff photographer).

TO MARION COUNTY VOTERS OUTSIDE SALEM:

The PUD Deal a Promoter's Paradise

FISCAL AGENT FEES
ATTORNEY'S FEES
BOND FEES
SURVEY FEES

Fat PUD Deal Fees Attract Promoters Like Bees to Honey

Promoters and politicians are asking you to vote for the PUD measure on the ballot November 5. Why are they so anxious? Here's the reason: One promoter already has collected over a million dollars in bond fees from PUD Deals in Nebraska, and now is after his second million from similar deals in the State of Washington. Apparently PUD promoters now think Oregon is ripe for picking.

This same promoter blandly admitted to an investigating committee in the federal congress that the PUD Deal is a "big gamble." The trouble is, it's a gamble with the risks all on the public's side—a gamble in which PUD promoters and politicians seek to enrich themselves from the public tax-trough. The electric consumer and the taxpayer, of course, pay through the nose.

THE CARDS ARE STACKED

Examine the "five cards" below which the PUD Deal promoters are trying to slip the public from the bottom of the deck. And remember, in this sort of game, you can't draw new cards for ONCE YOU'RE IN A PUD YOU CAN'T GET OUT!

- 1. Creation of a New Tax-Laying Body. The PUD sets up a new tax-laying agency with powers to assess new taxes without your further vote.
- 2. Political Mismanagement. Promoters are in the gravy when they get the public to bite on their PUD schemes. In the State of Washington PUDs have milked $2,552,809 of taxes from the suffering public.
- 3. Bond Liens on Your Property. Under the law, PUD can use its taxing power to electorator for general obligation bonds up to $2,720,000—liens on your property.
- 4. Bond Liens on Your Electric Bills. The PUD can tax you, and then electorator for any amount of revenue bonds—liens on your electric bills.
- 5. Higher PUD Deal Electric Bills. Only two PUDs now sell electricity in Oregon. Both charge higher rates than Marion County citizens now pay for PGE-Bonneville electricity.

KEEP WHAT YOU HAVE

1. Low-cost Bonneville Power.
2. Local, non-political management of your electric system.
3. Regulation of electric rates and limitation of profits by your own state government.

VOTE 319 X NO
Against the PUD Gamble Nov. 5
