

Donaugh Asks Boys Clubs to Prevent Crime

Help all boys, not just those who violate the law, was advocated by Carl Donaugh, former president of the International Law Enforcement Officers' association and now international president of the Optimist service club, who was today club speaker Wednesday. Donaugh is a former United States attorney for the Portland district and was introduced by Bruce Spaulding, local optimist.

The results obtained from boys clubs in cities which are sponsored by service clubs was the theme of Donaugh's talk and he spoke in particular of a pan-American club at El Paso, Texas, which has 10 to 15 years of experience.

The boys conducted their meeting in Spanish guided by the senior club members but later eagerly crowded forward to greet Donaugh, national president, of the sponsoring group.

Boys Scouts present for the meeting were introduced by Lee Curb. They were John Humphreys, cub scout, Gary Romaine, Rotary scout troop, and Richard Wyatt, air scout and assistant patrol leader.

Tom Barrett, Salem high school student body president, was introduced as the high school Rotarian of the month from the high school.

Stassen Urges Strike Cool-off Period Started

SEATTLE, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, addressing a republican campaign rally here tonight, advocated "a negotiating period fixed by government during which either strike or lockout would be unlawful."

His suggestion came after he had assailed the administration's labor policy, asserting that "bungling and ineptness in labor relations since VJ day has caused a minimum of five billion dollar loss in the standard of living of the American people in 1946."

He declared the "basic stoppages in steel and other fundamental industries would never have occurred if there had been an early facing of basic economic questions. Instead we heard expounded entirely impossible economic solutions with the statement that it would be possible to raise wages 30 per cent without raising prices."

Stassen, who was Admiral Halsey's flag lieutenant during the war, said he believed "the republican party should make it clear that it would give vigorous continuous support to the growth and development of the United Nations Organization."

He conceded the organization was "not perfect, but it is the best hope for lasting peace and progress in the welfare of mankind."

255 Enroll in Night Classes

NIGHT SCHOOL Director George Porter last night said that 255 persons had registered for night high school classes at the senior high school building, Parrish junior high school and the public library building. Ninety-eight were reported registered for extension courses offered by the state system of higher education.

Fifty-five 16-17 year old students, who are working during the day and are required by law to attend night school until they are 18, are enrolled, Porter said. Vacancies still exist in typing and shorthand and machine shop practice classes at the high school, he said. Late registration will be continued next week in both high school and extension courses.

3 Indicted on Kidnap Charge

PORTLAND, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Three men accused of abducting Mrs. Margaret Havelly, 27-year-old Portland housewife, from a small cafe were indicted today on charges of kidnaping and assault and robbery while armed with a dangerous weapon.

The trio were Jess W. Neal, 24; Ernest W. Avery, 21; and Alvin L. Dahl, 17. They were arrested at Heppner Sunday, three days after Mrs. Havelly disappeared.

The woman was rescued in a hideout cabin and said she was unharmed.

Handicapped Apply for Jobs

Handicapped persons in the Salem area have been applying in increasing numbers for employment this week due to the publicity for the National Employ the Physically Handicapped week, according to William Baillie, manager of the Salem USES.

The program for the week is progressing with radio programs and speeches before various organizations and service groups. Carlton Greider, veterans counselor at the local USES, attended a meeting in Portland Monday night at which representatives of employers, veterans, unions, and state officials presented the part played by their particular groups in getting the physically handicapped back into productive employment.

After the meeting Greider participated in a radio program on a "Job For Veterans" theme.

Gov. Snell Tells of Tourist Spending

GRESHAM, Ore., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Gov. Snell told a meeting of the Mount Hood POW-Wowers tonight the tourist trade brought $83,000,000 to Oregon this year and pointed out there was no ceiling to the possibilities of the tourist industry, the state's third largest.

He said tourists now remain in the state an average of eight days and spend $6.21 per person per day and that it is one industry that will never deplete Oregon's scientific resources.

Scouts off to Record Year

Boy Scouts and Scouters of Salem and surrounding areas are plunging into the fall program in a manner which points to a record year of activities. Martin Mockford, assistant Cascade council executive, said Wednesday.

District meetings were held in Dallas and Woodburn Tuesday night for the Polk and Silver Falls districts.

Roundups of all participating scouts and a court of honor will be held in both Polk and Silver Falls districts, the former at Dallas October 24 and the latter at Woodburn November 18. To spur boys and older scouts to greater activity, awards for various achievements will be made at the roundups, and Salem Rotary club announced that an award to the outstanding cub or scout of the month will be made each month of the current program, Mockford said.

Garden Work Planned for Mehama Club

Plans for Salem's first public auction of bulbs, plants, shrubs and flowers and for a fall flower and garden show were announced yesterday by the Salem Men's Garden club.

The show will open at 1 p.m. Saturday and continue until 8 p.m. that day when the auction will be held. Both events are to be at the Salem YMCA.

Proceeds from the auction will help finance a club handbook on gardening experiences and methods used by successful local gardeners, the club stated. Items for the auction will be contributed by club members.

Entries in the competitive garden show may be made by all local gardeners, both amateur and professional, the club said. Classes for the competition will include flowering shrubs, trees, bulbs, annuals, foliage plants, vegetables, perennials, house plants, evergreens, flower arrangements, garden club displays, corsages, foliage arrangements and educational displays.

Ray Warren is chairman of the garden show committee and K. D. Burres heads the auction committee.
