Viks, Axemen Set For Friday Battle

Odds Still Up On Eugene 11

Good Backs Numerous For Friday Classic

With both sides at full strength and weighing about the same in all but respective seasonal records, Salem high's Vikings and the undefeated Eugene Axemen await the 8 p.m. kickoff for their annual football classic Friday on Sweetland field. It will be the 38th meeting between the two schools -oldest rivals in the state's prep world-and the Hank Kuchera club will be gunning for its 22nd win. Salem has won 15 times in the past and one game ended in a tie back in 1905. Although the twice - defeated Vikings have been pointing to Friday's game the past couple of weeks, the odds still lean heavily to the Eugene side. The Axemen by two or three touchdowns. Only a 19-19 tie with powerful Medford blurs the Axeman record,

Six-Rounder Added To Hoag-Lacey Bout

Stockily-built Johnny O'Day of Klamath Falls and Davey Arndt of Portland, the middleweights who swiped the last armory boxing show in their bloody sixrounder, will attempt to do just that again next Wednesday when Matchmaker Tex Salkeld pre-sents his 30-round boxing card. O'Day and Arndt were signed to meet again in a six-rounder preceding the Duane Hoag-Snooks Lacey main event.

O'Day had himself a cinch win over Arndt laste time and had battered upon a cut over Arndt's eye. But the prodding Portlander stayed with it and finally kayoed the hard-punching O'Day in the last round. It was a dandy of a scrap all the way. Meanwhile, tidings concerning the Hoag-Lacey mainer have also been released by Salkeld. Leo Lomski, the remembered "Aberdeen Assassin," has been hired by Larry Caputo, Hoag's manager, to train the featherweight buzz saw. Lomski saw in Hoag the possibility of a future feather standout and intends helping the 19-yearold along the fistic trail. Already Lohski has predicted that "if Hoag will keep crowding and punching at Lacey he's bound to catch up with him inside of 10 rounds." Lacey, a smooth boxer and counter-puncher, is also very fast and will likely have Hoag chasing him and swinging wildly as much as possible. Both battlers are undefeated in the local last Saturday.

As a matter of fact, when a team wins 49 to 0, as did Army over West Virginia, or 28 to 8, the score of the Notre Dame victory over Navy, the perform-ances might be termed adequate. It is a tribute to the prowess of the Cadets and Irish that they could register such triumphs and still "look bad."

Maybe there is a little under-estimation of the opposition put up by Navy and West Virginia in rating the winners' performances. Navy, with a miserable record, was out to show it wasn't as bad as painted. Or shellacked

South Benders, Cadets Couldn't Get Interested Last Week

might be the word. From personal observation we can say that the West Virginians played a fearless, spirited game. They had no chance of winning, but they were in the hair of the Cadets all afternoon. After all, guys who are big enough and determined enough and know how to tackle can cause a mess of trouble, particularly if they quickly realize the oppos-ing players are flesh and blood after all.

That Army was taking it easy might be a logical guess, but it wouldn't be accurate. Army was going the best it could, and that it wasn't better was due to the mental attitude. The boys just couldn't get interested. Anyway, if you're trying to rate Army and Notre Dame on their showings last Saturday, don't. The showings were only a promise that next Saturday both teams will be great.

Yes, this is the football epic of the century."

Ankle Sprain By the Associated Press

Fate and fortune seemed to have reverted to the side of Army today when, like a bolt from the blue, came word from the campus of Notre Dame that Johnny Lujack, the Irish ace-in-the-hole quarterback, had suffered a sprained right ankle in practice which made his starting chances against the West Pointers Saturday at Yankee stadium an uncertainty to say the least.

A shocked horror spread over Notre Dame's do-or-die football squad when Lujack, the club's sparkplug and the man most necessary to the Irish hopes for revenge against the Army, suffered his injury. It was uncertain just what effect this heart breaker might have on the possible chances of the boy from the Pennsylvania coal fields being able to do a full sized job in Saturday's national championship clash. Not even the Notre Dame school physician, Dr. Joseph Caton, was willing to guess. But all hands, from Head Coach

Frank Leahy down, realized that without 21-year old Johnny, the kid who could have gone to Army but chose Notre Dame instead, the kind who came back from the wars after a hitch aboard a sub chaser in the Atlantic, the hopes of getting even for the 107 points the Cadets have rolled up on the Irish in the past two years were just about shattered. Added to this setback for Leahy's squad was the word that Floyd Simmons, the 195-pound Portland, Ore., halfback who flashed brilliantly against Navy last week, is probably out of the Cadet clash with a groin injury. Meanwhile in New York frenzied ticket seekers were scouring the town for ducats - and finding them as scarce as democratic office winners. Offers ranging as high as $200 were offered for
