Ranch Ramblings

By the Rural Reporter

Grangers from all sections of the United States plan to attend the open session of the national Grange at Portland today when at 3 p. m. Clinton Anderson, secretary of agriculture, will address the assembly. This, as were the three presentations of the rites Thursday, will be held at the municipal auditorium.

Approximately 3,000 grangers were on hand for opening Wednesday. Included were representations of 37 different states. Thursday afternoon drew even more, and Friday was expected to be the large day of this week.

Highlight of Wednesday's program was the address of National Master Arthur S. Goss. He stressed the need of continued production and called for administration both at the national and international levels that will avoid impoverishing food producers in peace time for the abundance they were called on to provide as a wartime effort and then to feed the hungry world. Peace, said Anderson, may depend more now on the success of non-political discussions about food and troublesome world economic problems than on how diplomats handle the United Charter.

Goss challenged the idea that the United Nations is proving a failure, but he said that history may record that the greatest strength of the UN charter lies in such of its auxiliaries as the food and agricultural organizations, the economic and social council and other international groups of business men, farmers, workers and educators.

The corridors of the Multnomah hotel, headquarters for the grange, look like old home week down on the farm. Grangers from all up and down the valley were strolling about with registration space at a premium all Wednesday.

More than 5,000 were initiated into the seventh degree ranch at the three ceremonies Thursday.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause is a clogged kidney. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about a pint a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause headache, rheumatic pain, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headachy and dizzy. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys and bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
