

Lewis' Lawyer Team Caught With Their Precedents Down

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29-(AP)—John L. Lewis' ten lawyers were caught with their precedents down today. Judge T. Alan Goldsborough started it all when he asked for an argument on three points in the defendants' brief. Could he have this argument now please? Bafflement... confusion... ten legal heads in a quick huddle. We'll Hopkins, who quarter-backs the Lewis team, then said his outfit hadn't expected to argue these points. Is there a law library in the house? he asked. Judge Goldsborough said, you're welcome to mine. Whereupon two Lewis lawyers hustled out. Another member of the club, Edmund Burke, carried on while the two caught up on their homework.

The government has a fair sized legal staff, too. But unlike the Lewis crew, which take turns, five of the government men sit silent. John Sonnett does all the government talking. Sonnett also got a gentle judicial ribbing. As the youthful government attorney tried to speak in behalf of admitting certain papers, Judge Goldsborough interrupted him: "The court rules with you—you had better not say any more or you may say something to make me change my ruling."

Buildings Open For Inspection At Camp Adair

War assets administration today offers a new group of 518 Camp Adair surplus buildings for sale to veteran HH priority holders, according to word here from the WAA headquarters in Portland. The period for bids and inspection begins today and ends December 14. Permanent fixtures such as plumbing and wiring are considered part of a building, the sale announcement states. Bids must be listed by individuals building although there is no limit on the number of structures for which anyone may bid, it was stated. Bids will be opened at 10 a.m. December 19 in the WAA building at Swan Island, Portland. Another group of 287 surplus Adair buildings, after only four HH bids were accepted recently, is now on sale to the general public, the offering period having begun last Wednesday. The current HH offering, minus buildings sold to HH priority bidders, eventually will go on sale to lower priority groups and the general public. The 518 Adair buildings now available to priority bidders include 17 barracks measuring 29 by 90 feet, 80 mess halls up to 25 by 130 feet, 80 storehouses and company administration buildings 29 by 92 and 25 by 100 feet, 25 officers' quarters 30 by 33 to 30 by 136 feet, and miscellaneous smaller and larger buildings.

Alcatraz Guards Vary Testimony

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29-(AP)—An Alcatraz prison guard, wounded at Swan Island, Portland, uprising last May, testified today that ringleader Joseph Paul Cretzer shot him—cold bloodedly and while screaming curses. But a second guard said Cretzer shot him after declaring "I'm sorry." Cretzer was killed in the fight that followed, and three convict survivors, Sam R. Shockley, Clarence Carnes and Miran E. Thompson, are on trial in federal court here on murder charges in the death of Guard William A. Miller. In all, five men were killed and 15 wounded.

Solon Suggests Volunteers Work Mines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29-(AP)—A recommendation that President Truman call for public volunteers to operate coal mines—if miners fail to return to their jobs after a direct appeal by the president—came today from Senator Knowland (R-Calif.).

Knowland wrote Mr. Truman that he would "have the overwhelming support of the American people" if he took the following steps to end the crippling coal strike:

1. "A direct appeal to the miners themselves" over the head of John L. Lewis to return to work while their leaders negotiated wage and other differences. Knowland suggested a 48-hour "time limit" on this appeal. Work Open Strip Mines
2. A presidential appeal "for volunteers to uphold their government" by operating the coal mines if the strikers failed to return. The senator said that "open strip mines work could go on" by untrained volunteers and that army engineers could supervise such operations if volunteers failed to supply this need. He said these open mines produced 16 to 18 per cent of last year's coal production.

3. An appeal to all local, state and federal governments to see that law and order is maintained and that volunteer miners are protected. Use of Pipelines
4. Immediate operation of the wartime oil pipelines to carry natural gas and other coal substitutes, and construction of additional pipelines to "prevent a repetition of the present situation in the future."

There was no immediate reaction from the White House.

1946 Strikes Surpass 1919

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29-(AP)—A government report showed tonight that the number of 1946 strikes will establish a new record eclipsing the existing mark set in 1919.

The bureau of labor statistics announced that 4,095,000 workers were involved in strikes for the ten-month period through October of this year. Add to this the 40,000 members of the AFL United Mine Workers now engaged in the crippling coal strike and the total already far exceeds the 4,160,000 striker record of 1919.

Unemployment in State Said Serious

PORTLAND, Nov. 29-(AP)—Loa Howard, state public welfare administrator, said today that unemployment is becoming a serious problem in Oregon. Miss Howard told the state welfare commission that relief applications are increasing daily, and that more and more persons fail to find jobs. She cited 200 families who she said were still living at the Marion county farm labor camp, many of which have not found work since the harvest ended. Family desertions are increasing, too.

Teachers Ask Pro-American Literary Revolt

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 29-(AP)—A literary revolution designed to puncture the prestige of Shakespeare, Shelley, Keats and other English classicists in American schools was proposed today at the 36th annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English. E. Sculley Bradley, chairman of American Civilization at the University of Pennsylvania, proposed in a paper that English writers take a back seat to Mark Twain, Edgar Allan Poe, Washington Irving, Walt Whitman and other American authors and poets. Almost as startling as Bradley's paper was one by Harold A. Anderson of the University of Chicago which fired a broadside at methods of teaching grammar.

Anderson said American youth has been confused, "if not corrupted" by such other grammatical myths as the split infinitive and prepositional ending and a host of other linguistic idolatries which have preoccupied the interests of English teachers. Sudden withdrawal of the government from operation of grammatice water services, Smith said, would have these results: Interoceanic service—Most operators "could not be expected to attempt operation for their own account in view of the certain prospect of large operating losses."

Idaho Seeks Coal Held at Pendleton

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 29-(AP)—Gov. Arnold Williams today acted to secure surplus coal now held at Pendleton, Ore., to partially alleviate the "critical" coal situation which he said now faces Idaho. The governor said he had been advised by the solid fuels administration at Seattle that 1400 tons of surplus coal is now being held at the Pendleton army air base.

Confessions of German Killer Discovered

BERLIN, Nov. 29-(AP)—The Nazi government for unexplained reasons hushed up the story of a German "Bluebeard" who confessed 53 sex killings and died a Vienna prison death in 1944, perhaps from the effects of the Nazis' medical experiments, secret police files disclosed today. The voluminous story was uncovered by a German newspaperman who obtained access to the six by four and a half foot bookshelf in criminal police headquarters which was required to hold the secret file of Bruno Luedtke who said he had killed 53 persons with knife, club and noose in a 20-year sex-mad career.

Luedtke, a dark beetle-browed laborer, acknowledged crimes exceeding even those of the Frenchman, Dr. Petiot, who was sentenced to death for 49 war-time slayings which the Nazis highly publicized. Some of his victims he attacked in the woods or fields, but usually he had trapped them in their homes after carefully plotting the crime, and if he encountered the husband he killed him too.

Continuation Of Coast Ship Rules Sought

CONTINUATION 24-3 P 2
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29-(AP)—The maritime commission urged today that authority for emergency government operation of coastwise and intercoastal shipping not be allowed to expire next February 28.

Vice Admiral W. W. Smith, the commission chairman, wrote conversion Director John E. Steelman that "chaotic consequences (will follow) if those essential services are disrupted."

Since congress alone can renew the authority, Smith's letter to Steelman was taken as a move to call attention to the shipping situation well before the new congress convenes on January 3. Coastwise Trades—Most firms engaged therein would "certainly cease operations altogether with the expectation of specialized contract carriers of commodities in bulk." Alaskan Services—"Existing conditions make profitable commercial operation altogether impossible. Unless substantial government assistance is provided, therefore, it is certain that the services will be discontinued abruptly."

Representatives of Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, El Salvador, Guatemala, Panama, Paraguay and Uruguay have signed an agreement for joint action in control of locusts.
