

Reparations Changes Affect Italy, Bulgaria

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov finally won tonight — with the reluctant agreement of Secretary of State Byrnes — his long fight to slash Bulgarian reparations and increase Italian reparations payments.

A final decision in the reparations issue was reached in the big four foreign ministers council along with clean-up agreements, involving several concessions by Molotov, on outstanding issues in the axis satellite peace treaties.

night's session, diplomats present report, that it seemed certain the treaties would be finally agreed upon by Saturday and a start made, probably Monday, on discussions of a final peace settlement for Germany.

The final decision on reparations means that Italy will have to pay a total of $360,000,000, which is $35,000,000 more than was recommended by the Paris peace conference last fall. Bulgaria will have to pay a total of $70,000,000 or $55,000,000 less than the Paris conference recommended.

Mrs. Henagin To Testify at Trial Today

OREGON CITY, Dec. 5.—(P)—The prosecution closed its case today against Mrs. Luelia Henagin, 46, charged with first-degree murder, and the accused woman's testimony was expected next.

Prosecutors said they had been informed the woman would take the stand tomorrow morning to relate happenings the night of October 28 when her husband, school superintendent of West Linn, was fatally wounded. The case is expected to reach the jury Saturday.

Dr. Howard Richardson, state criminologist, testified today that the death gun was within an inch of Henagin's clothing of the two fatal shots. The defense maintains the shots were fired in a struggle between Henagin and his wife over the .22 caliber revolver.

Tricks with Electricity Amaze Audience at Telephone Office

By Ed Lewis Staff Writer, The Statesman

He actually lit a fluorescent light on a man who had been charged with electricity!

Ken Peterson says it's just a matter of "getting accustomed to it." Peterson and Tommy Welch of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company's public relations office in Portland, performed numerous other demonstrations for the entertainment of probably more than 200 persons at three performances last night at the Salem offices for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

A tichnor coil is used to convey the electric charge indirectly into the human body and only a slightly disagreeable tingle is experienced.

Welch and Peterson demonstrated the use of telephones, telephonic equipment, beginning with a replica of Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone, invented June 2, 1875.

A throat microphone, which will enable persons to talk without the use of vocal cords, was demonstrated, and a telephone conversation was conducted through an electrical circuit which was completed by a row of the audience.

Statistics cited show that Salem's 4325 daily long distance telephone calls are up 190 per cent from calls during 1941 and that local calls have increased 51 per cent over 1941's 51,188 local calls. More orders for telephone installation are held by the Salem telephone company and an approximate 100 per cent increase in personnel has been made here since 1941, Harry V. Collins, district manager for the company, said.

The special performances last night and Wednesday were primarily for local telephone workers and their families.

Police Investigate Three Collisions

Three auto collisions were investigated between 5 and 6 p.m. Thursday by city police. No one was injured.

Cars driven by Lynn Sullivan, 225 E. Myers st., and Noah Kessler, route 4, Salem, collided at Myers and South Commercial streets. Dean C. Lowery, 700 Edina lane, and Charles Love, 199 Park ave., in the 3200 block of Portland road; Ada Mills, 1465 Fairmount st., and Robert Upden-kelder, Albany, at Miller and South Commercial streets, police report.

Youth Passes Bogus Checks

Eight bogus checks for $20 each were passed in as many Salem businesses yesterday by a youth who wrote the checks to "Billy Allday" and signed the name "Clarence Johnson." He reportedly had $500 in bogus checks on his person when arrested by City Detective Wayne Parker at about 3 p.m. yesterday.

Parker apprehended the check writer in a local hotel, after having a merchant take a check to the Salem bank on which it was written, to be sure it was fraudulent. He trailed the youth for more than a half hour, from store to store, before making the arrest. Several purchases were made in the process of cashing the checks. The youth, who told Parker he deserted the army at Lowry field, Colo., two months ago, claimed he was only 17 years old.

Clark Residence Burns at Liberty

LIBERTY — The Clark home across the road from Liberty school burned to the ground

Thursday noon. Origin was not immediately determined. Neither the Salem nor Four Corners fire departments were able to assist the fire extinguishing efforts of neighbors because the Liberty area is outside both territories. The state forestry department sent some emergency equipment to prevent the fire from spreading.

Naturalists say the "busy beaver" spends much of his time loafing.
