TAX PROBLEM UNSETTLED

The question of whether residents of the border districts which were recently added to the city of Salem will be subject to assessment for indebtedness incurred by rural fire districts of which they were former members, as well as subject to taxation for city fire protection is still undecided, according to officials of the Marion county district attorney's office Tuesday. The request for an opinion on the question was submitted by county assessor Tad Shelton to Miller Hayden, district attorney, who in turn presented the problem to the state attorney general. The attorney general submitted the fire district question to the state tax commission, which at present hasn't rendered its decision.
