Salem Heights Pageant Given

SALEM HEIGHTS--A Christmas pageant in three acts climaxed a yuletide program of Salem Heights school children in the Salem Heights community hall last week.

The first act depicted an American home with the children and parents united for the first time since war. The scene was interspersed with Christmas songs by the chorus of 115 voices. As the scene was concluded the Mother prepares to tell the Christmas story.

Second and final acts portrayed the Christmas story from the time Mary and Joseph got to Bethlehem to the manger scene with the gatherings of angels, women, shepherds and children of all nations.

The pageant was directed by the Salem Heights school teachers and included Barbara Lovick and Charlotte Jones, Music; Avilla Boyer, dramatics; Grace Craig and Gladys Fauand, costumes; Nan Denham, scenery; Mrs. Enid Dotson and Principal Marion F. Miller also assisted.

Marcos de Niza, a Franciscan friar, is believed to have been the first white man to enter what is now Arizona.

Sublimity Telephone Co-operative Formed

STAYTON--Sublimity Telephone company, a cooperative with 140 subscribers, was organized at a meeting held in Forester hall in Sublimity Wednesday, when stockholders of the Red, the White, and the Blue telephone companies met. Fifty subscribers were present.

Stockholders elected Mike Benedict and Alon Hassler, one-year directors; George Tate and Arlo Humphreys, two-year directors; and Irwin Schumacher, three-year directors.

George Tate was elected president; J. W. Schumacher, vice president, and Mike Benedict, secretary-treasurer, by the directors.
