the Saturday papers really deserves much more promroads have agreed to cut the freight rate on steel moving from Geneva, Utah, to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland from 70c to 48c a hundred pounds. To Seattle the new rate

This is a major victory for the west's industries. It brings the cost of steel laid down in Portland down $420 per ton over the present cost by water from the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant in Maryland. Thus it virtually assures the Geneva plant, now owned by U. S. Steel, of dominance in the market along the west coast, and it assures the coast of cheaper steel.

Industrialization of the west has been greatly retarded by the cost of steel which is basic in modern manufacturing. The plants which have operated here have been largely local, doing specialty work or local fabrication. Competition from the big plants in the east has been too keen for wide expansion. The new cost of steel will dull that competition somewhat and give western industry a better chance to progress.

This subject of western development is dealt with in sharp criticism of westerners by Bernard DeVoto in an article in the January Harpers, following up a previous article on the same theme. He heads it "The West Against Itself." He accused westerners of blindly and stupidly selling out the long-range interest either for immediate profit or as pawns to the east. There is much of truth in what he says, but his complaint is lacking somewhat in historical perspec-

of consuming the range so that (Continued on Editorial page)
