'Czarship' Said Offered Mead

In a story filed by its Washington bureau, the Courier-Express said tonight that former Senator James H. Mead has been offered a job as "czar" of professional football.

"This bureau has learned authoritatively that Mead has been approached several times as a possible 'football czar" to do in professional football what another former Senator (Happy) Chandler) does in baseball," the story said.

It added that if Mead does not get what he wants politically "he might accept such a position."

Hoover Says Promoters, Athletes Have 'Sacred Duty'; Law Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13-(AP)-FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said

Hoover expressed the view it is up to the promoters and performers to "clean house and keep it clean" themselves. He told an interviewer that legislation "should be a matter of last resort and should be enacted only if absolutely necessary."

Hebert said in a statement that "sports is big business and the public must be protected from the fixers, the chislers and the grafters." His measure would provide a maximum penalty of ten years in prison and $10,000 fine for bribery or attempted bribery. It was introduced, he said, as a result of the scandal involving the conviction of Alvin Paris, of New York, for attempting to rig the national football league's championship playoff. League Commissioner Bert Bell announced last weekend the professional group would seek federal, state and local legislation.

Hoover asserted that "keeping sports clean and above the ugly rumors of fixes and control boy gamblers is an absolute necessity and added:

"Clean sports is one of the fine and effective means of developing good citizenship, particularly upon the part of our youth.

"The average American, particularly the youth, takes his sports seriously and wants them clean and uncontaminated "

The FBI director said a "definite and determined effort" should be made by "those directly responsible for the development of sporting events, and the patriclpants of athletic contests, to keep
