Questions and Answers M. B. asks what spring-flowering shrubs will bloom in doors by forcing.

Ans.: the forsythias, spireas, Japanese cherries. Japanese quince indoors. Kerria will also come out nicely. Don't have them in an overheated room. An even warmth of 60 to 70 degrees seems to bring them out without drying out. Any warmer than that is too warm - both for you and the blooms you wish to force. And give them fresh water every morning. One "forcer' advised me that the water should be just under lukewarm - in other words, take the chill off.

It is a wise admonition to have you call on the dentist on your first day off because this is a protective step that frequently saves you the discomfort caused by ailing teeth. It is wise for another reason, because it means you will not have to take time off from your jeb when tooth troubles become acute. By visiting the dentist at frequent intervals, you can have teeth examined and necessary repairs made.

Accepted Credit Helps Protect Dental Health

When natural teeth are missing, arrange for restorations with new dental plates. You need teeth to chew the strong, vigorous foods that provide nourishment as well as to safeguard your natural appearance. Cheeks become hollow, facial muscles become flabby and your profile is distorted unless lost teeth are repla-
