

Road Asphalt, Oil Contracts Are Awarded

The state board of control Thursday approved contracts involving approximately 25,000 tons of road asphalt and asphalt for use of the state highway department. The Sinclair Refining company of Wyoming received the contract for road oils allocated to Baker, Grant, Harney and Malheur counties at $8.60 per ton, origin of shipment. Approximately 50 per cent of the contract went to the Five C Refining company, Santa Maria, Calif. The Standard Oil company and Shell Oil company shared in furnishing road oil allocated to the territory adjacent to Multnomah county, based on a price of $18 per ton, Portland delivery. The board authorized its secretary to enter into a contract with the Bonneville administration for providing electric power for the state board of higher education dormitories at Camp Adair, at an estimated cost of $15,000 to $18,000 a year.

University of Oregon officials reported that the fire which recently destroyed a campus warehouse resulted in a loss of $125,000, covered by the state restoration fund in lieu of insurance.

Norman Walling Killed in Car In Georgia

AMITY—News reached Amity the first of the week that Lt. Comm. Norman Walling Jr., grandson of J. W. Walling of Amity, was killed early this month in St. Simons Island, Georgia, in an automobile accident. He was the only occupant of the car. Naval authorities notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walling of Panama City, Panama. A fellow officer took the ashes to San Francisco where he was met by the parents who arrived by plane, and the grandfather J. W. Walling and Mrs. Walling who had spent the winter in Calif.

The young lieutenant commander was born in Colon, Nov. 16, 1920, was a graduate of Staunton college, Virginia, and graduate from Annapolis at the beginning of world war II when he was commissioned and became an officer of the navy air corps. His parents left San Francisco for their home by steamer Monday, Feb. 17, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Walling arrived in Amity Monday morning.
