DEVOTION

We are successful in this business of compounding prescriptions because we work at it. We are conscientiously devoted to it. We set the highest ethical standards, employ the ablest Registered Pharmacists, accept and dispense only the purest of potent drugs which come from dependable producers. If such a service resulted in higher prescription prices, they could be readily justified. Yet, actually, the economies of a volume business, such as ours, permit us to maintain lower-than-average prescription prices. Try us for that next prescription.
