

Homemakers Festival Set For April 9

By Marguerite Gleason
Statesman Valley Editor

Home Extension units of Marion county will hold the annual homemakers festival Wednesday, April 9, in the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall on Hood street in Salem. Registration opens at 10:30 and the program starts at 11 o'clock with Mrs. Rex H. Hays presiding at the morning session.

"Making a Jiffy Skirt" will be a 4-H club demonstration project at this morning session. Doris Lane and Donna Plenge of Liberty will give the demonstration. The Hubbard unit will present a skirt and Azalea Sager, state home demonstration agent leader, will speak on "What the Extension Service Offers" at 11:40.

Ankeny grange Home Ec club will serve the luncheon at noon and Mrs. Floyd Fox of Union Hill will preside at the afternoon session, with Mrs. L. J. Stewart of Four Corners leading in group singing. Salem high school students will furnish music under direction of Lena Belle Tartar.

"Acts and Attitudes" will be the subject of the talk by Bishop Bruce Baxter at 2 p.m. The style revue, high light of the year's work, will be presented at 2:30 by Four Corners, Lansing Neighbors and Pratum-Macleay units with Constance Hampton, assistant club agent, as commentator. Mrs. Alf Nelson will furnish the music for the revue.

Eleanor Trindle, Marion county home demonstration agent, will present the unit achievement recognitions at the close of the program. Exhibits will be on display in the hall showing the work of the more than 20 extension units of the county, a total of 23 are now active, several having been added to the total this year.

C. C. Russell, Retired Marion Farmer, Dies

Charles Clement Russell, 85, of 1078 Highland ave., an Oregon resident for 42 years, died at a local hospital Saturday after a week's illness. Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the W. T. Rigdon chapel, Dr. Charles Durden officiating. Concluding services will be at City View cemetery.

Born May 18, 1861, at Vermilion, S.D., the son of Miles and Jane Russell, he married in 1893 Mae Josephine Adams, who survives. Coming to Oregon in 1905, he moved to Marion county after living a short time in Grants Pass. He retired from farming about three years ago and moved to Salem.

Surviving are the widow; three sons, Ward C. Russell of Aurora, Otto W. Russell of Springfield and Miles J. Russell of Salem; one daughter, Hazel Patterson; eight grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, a nephew and a niece.

Palbearers will be Oral Garner, E. Hendrickson, Robin Day, Morris Dunnigan and Vern Beermann. Honorary palbearers are A. L. Laub, Al Collins, John Hendrickson and Fred Chapman.

Customs Men to Return to Work

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP)—Some 1500 customs bureau officers who received dismissal notices this week got assurances today from three senators that many will go back on the job.

Senator Cordon (R-Ore.), chairman of a senate appropriations sub-committee, told a reporter he does not approve of the mass firing.

"We'll have to find some other way to economize," Cordon said.

"THE YOUNG IDEA" By Mossler

"Why, Buford, what a wonderful surprise!"

Chief Roble Advises Spring Check to Remove Fire Hazards

By Robert E. Gangware
City Editor, The Statesman

Spring housecleaning is the best time of year for householders to check their homes for fire hazards, Fire Chief W. P. Roble declared yesterday.

He said household hazards are so numerous that even the most vigilant home owner, without at least one thorough examination of his premises every year, may needlessly endanger his family and property. Firemen are not authorized to make home inspections unless requested to do so by the property owner, it was explained by Chief Roble. He added that although such inspections are rarely asked, nearly every home fire demonstrates the existence of avoidable hazards in Salem homes.

Hazards Likely Anywhere

Hazards are likely to exist anywhere in a house, from the chimney and roof to the corner worktable in a basement, said the new Salem fire chief as he ticked off dozens of dangers of the household variety.

"Take the bedroom, for instance," illustrated Roble, "and without even referring to smoking in bed, what could you find? An electric curling iron heating alongside a celluloid brush? A drop-cord for electric light wound around a metal bed? A hot light globe against clothes in a closet? A stopped-up flue hole? Or maybe even an electric heater only inches from a dresser cover?"

"Hazards, all of them," he emphasized. "Any one of them might cause a fire."

And every room in the house, plus attic and cellar, has at least as many potential dangers if the occupant drops his guard only briefly, say the chief.

Advises Room by Room Check

Roble advised householders to check their places, room by room, for any of the following common fire-faults, as well as for other careless practices that common sense would spot as a fire hazard:

In living rooms — an unsecured fireplace, waste basket just below an ash tray, lint accumulated in an air register, overloaded electric outlet, attic — chimney crack, kindling, dry old papers, combustibles against the chimney.

Kitchen — wood range too close to wall, unguarded smoke pipe, matches in reach of children, oil lamp in closet with hot water tank, clothes or dish-towels drying too near the stove.

Purcell room — unprotected floor joists too near furnace, cobwebs between joists, ash in combustible containers, too many electrical generators.

Garage or shop — oil leakage, emery wheel sparks near gasoline, oil-soaked rag, poor wiring.

Outside house — curled shingles, dirty chimneys, aerial or electric wires overhanging too near chimney, backyard brush.

Trade Board Grain Lower

CHICAGO, March 31.—(AP)—Wheat led all grains lower on the board of trade today, reflecting a drying up of buying power, belief of some traders that the advance may have run into at least a temporary halt and continued excellent crop reports from the southwest.

Trading was less active than in some time, although volume usually picked up on the sinking spells. Corn had fairly substantial losses at one time but a late rally about halved the decline. Oats showed a little more resistance to the selling than other grains.

Wheat closed 3 1/2 to 6 cents lower, May $2.54 1/2-2.55, corn was unchanged to 3 1/4 lower, May $1.80 1/2-1 1/4, and oats were 1 1/2-1 3/4 lower, May 88 1/2-1 1/4.

IRRIGATION WATER LOW

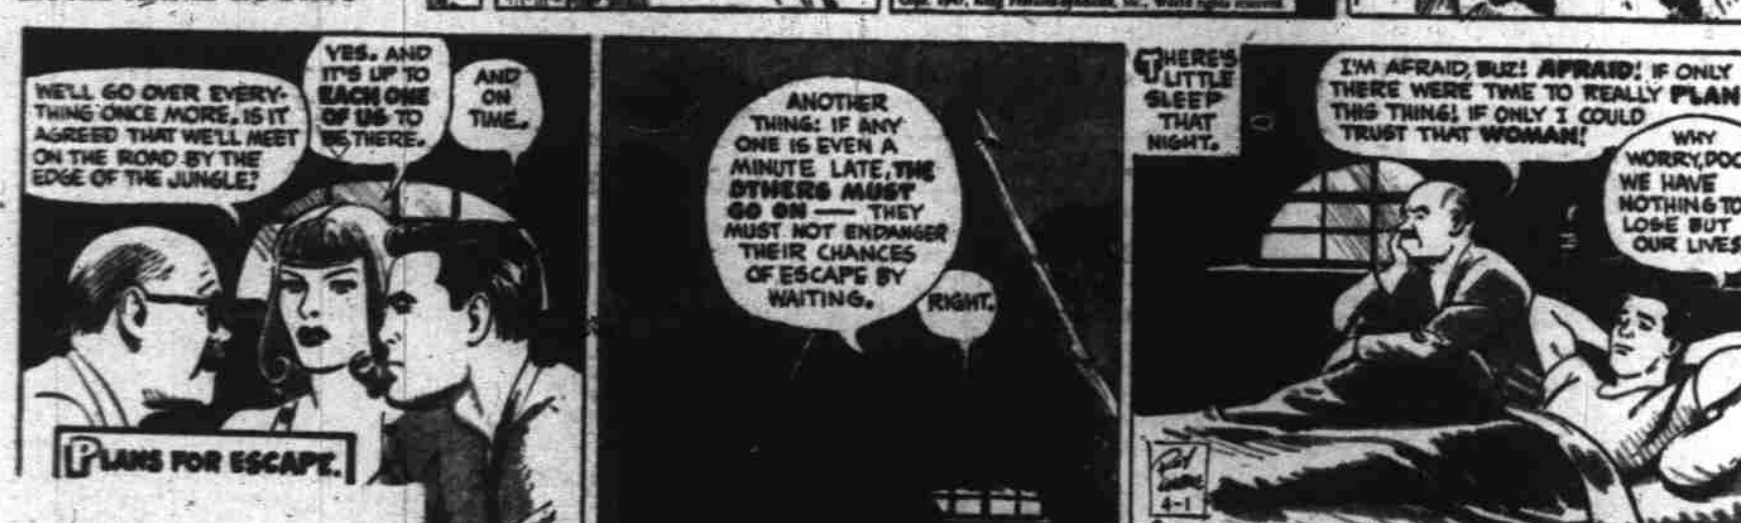

THE DALLES, Ore., March 31.—(AP)—North central Oregon will have less irrigation water than normal this year, the annual forecast meeting reported today.
