More Money First Aid Car

Art Peters of the Salem Trades and Labor council declared himself in favor of obtaining the "very best" first aid car and equipment at the first aid car committee meeting Friday evening and found that about $2,500 will be required in addition to the present $5,500 which has been raised through efforts of the labor council in the past few months.

It was decided that further fund-raising activities would be launched for the additional sum and a committee was appointed to investigate types of first aid cars for a report to a May meeting, yet to be called. Mayor R. L. Elfstrom stated that the city would order the car after the report, which is to be made after a study by Peters, First Aid Captain Charles M. Charlton and City Manager J. L. Franzen.

A $2,500 appropriation by the city would be used for equipping the car and for overhauling the present first aid vehicle as a Farmer, Dies standby car for emergency use.
