

Rubinoff, Berg Entertain at Rotary Lunch

An Oregon explorer who for 20 years has prepared films and writings on odd corners of the world for National Geographic and the Encyclopedia Britannica Wednesday noon entertained Salem Rotary club by recounting some of the lighter aspects of his travels.

Amos Berg, speaker at the Marion hotel luncheon meeting, said he has been sailing since he took the unadventurous job of bellboy on an ocean liner at the age of 13 and subsequently decided ship captains never quite wanted to travel where he hoped to go.

Later Berg organized film-writing expeditions to remote parts of Alaska, the southern tip of South America and other places, besides surveying life in China and Japan and accompanying William Beebe on a bathysphere expedition.

Special entertainment for the Rotarians was presented by Dave Rubinoff, who previewed his Wednesday night Salem concert with two violin selections after receiving the key to the city from Mayor R. L. Elstrom at the Rotary meeting. Rubinoff played Victor Herbert's "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and a virtuoso encore, "Dance of the Russian Peasant," which he said had been his graduation number when he left a Russian conservatory of music at the age of 14.

Scouts Presented

Presented to Rotary as scout and cub of the month, respectively, were Jack Beakley, 12, son of Mrs. Fern M. Beakley, 410 E. Rural st., and a patrol leader in Rotary scout troop 1, and Glen Hall, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hall, 2490 S. Church st., who is about to graduate from cubbing into the scouts.

No more rose bushes blooming in the spring along the courthouse square (and snagging nylons and trousers of motorists all year long). Instead, an 18-inch concrete sidewalk, to make walking easy. The bushes now will grace Salem's city parks. Shown above at work on the project, left to right, are Bill Kessell and Joe Hovorka, both of 790 N. Church st., and H. F. Peterson, route 5, box 1042. ### Fire Destroys Building On Aumsville Property

AUMSVILLE—The William Johnson home west of Aumsville, on the Salem hill road, was destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The fire started in a small building north of the house which contained an oil brooder.

A passerby stopped and woke the Johnsons and with the help of the fire department and volunteers most of the household furnishings were saved. The place was formerly known as the Snyder place.

TO HOLD LAMBS LONGER

Harry Lindgren, extension animal husbandman of Oregon state college, is advising, because of the decrease in sheep numbers in Oregon and the rest of the nation, shepherds to hold lambs until they reach heavier than usual weights this year. Price prospects justify such a recommendation, he says, and if feed conditions are such that lambs can be kept growing, this looks like an opportunity to make more money per ewe.

Instead of going to market at 80 pounds, lambs might be held until they reach 100 or 110 pounds.

General Lew Wallace, author of "Ben Hur," was a member of the court which tried the men charged with conspiring for the assassination of President Lincoln.
