Farm Platoon Sign-Up Starts In City Schools

Registration of students for work in harvest platoons this summer was carried on this week in Salem's grade and junior high schools under the auspices of the farm labor office. Mrs. Gladys Turnbull, farm labor assistant, visited the schools and left registration cards to be filled out by students in 6th to 9th grades and by 5th grade pupils aged 11 or 12. In contrast to the past four years, student platoons this year will be filled with older children, Mrs. Turnbull said. In spite of the increased adult farm labor supply, many farmers, especially bean growers, still prefer and need student platoons, she added. Platoon operations will be the same as in the past with trained adult leaders at the head of each unit. Last year 22 platoons, averaging 37 workers in each, harvested 2,889,467 pounds of Willamette valley food crops, earning a total of $93,767, Mrs. Turnbull said. To date the office has 12 farmers' orders for platoons.

Restaurants, Workers at Pay Stalemate

With controversy centering on the relationship between restaurant workers' pay and menu prices, contract negotiations between Salem culinary alliance and Salem restaurant association are stalemated, officials of both the union and employers' group disclosed Thursday. The higher pay now requested for waitresses and bartenders could be met only by raising menu prices about 15 per cent, at a time when restaurants are hoping to reduce their prices, it was asserted last night by Michael Flax, local restaurateur and chairman of the association's negotiations committee.

dropped entirely and the request for 75 cents per hour waitress wage having been lowered to 68 1/2 cents. Only changes in existing contracts sought, Pederson said, are increases from 62 1/2 to 68 1/2 cents per hour for waitresses and from $1 to $1.15 for bartenders. Offer Sliding Pay Scale. Flax said the restaurateurs are offering waitresses a sliding wage scale from 62 1/2 to 70 cents per hour, with an increase of 2 1/2 cents per hour every six months. He added that restaurants already are paying over the minimum scale for their more experienced waitresses. Four negotiation meetings already have been held and both groups are planning strategy sessions next week preparatory to reopening the contract discussions. Pederson said the alliance has 500 members employed in nearly all Salem restaurants and hotels. Peter the Great of Russia once worked in a Dutch shipyard.
