Peace Prospect

President Truman likes to look on the bright side of things, and was quite optimistic on the subject of peace when interviewed on his birthday. At 63 and in good health, and with breaks apparently coming his way of late, such an attitude of mind was natural. He told reporters he was as sure the world would have lasting peace as he was certain he was standing in his office. He pointed to the United Nations and declared the outlook for peace was much improved over what it was two years ago.

The same day our president was speaking Premier Clement R. Attlee of Britain warned that the world will never get peace if it depends on agreements by governments. The only hope is by agreement between peoples. He said that issues have grown more serious, and that dangers to civilization from another world war are greater today than they were between wars. At the same time he declared the nations cannot afford to let the U.N. fail.

The letter was far more realistic. There is scarcely a publicist who would not admit that the promise of world peace as an outgrowth of the last war has deteriorated in the past two years. President Truman himself shows by his policies that while he hopes for U.N. success his is keeping Uncle Sam's powder dry. His program of aid to Greece and Turkey has done much to impair the prestige of the United Nations and to reduce it to the role of a forum.

We cannot be deceived. Peace still has to be won. We dare not take it for granted.

Britain's Sterling Debt

Chancellor of the Exchequer Dalton and Winston Churchill, former prime minister and minority party leader are agreed in demands that its creditor countries, notably those in the so-called sterling bloc, should reduce their claims against Britain incurred for prosecuting the war. India and Egypt, for example, hold heavy credit balances in London for supplies furnished during the war. Yet, as Churchill pointed out, it was British troops largely who saved Egypt and India from being overrun by the axis powers.

Canada expunged its credits against Britain, and the United States furnished supplies liberally under the lend-lease program. Certainly these other countries which had a vital stake in allied victory should share in the cost, having been largely spared in the fighting.

The issue becomes acute because under former agreement the sterling balances which have been frozen in London will begin to "thaw out" July 1st. In other words London is due to begin honoring drafts on these balances. At present Britain cannot export goods in large enough quantity to meet these obligations and provide essential needs of its people. Some adjustment will have to be made, and those debts ought to be scaled down radically.

There is something so rationally normal about that two-woman scrap in Portland that we'd like to sit in on the court hearing. It seems that Mrs. A and her dog were walking past Mrs. B's house when the dog became overly attentive to the shrubbery. Mrs. B promptly turned the hose on Mrs. A and her dog; Mrs. A. picked up a hunk of timber to help settle the argument her way; the neighbors called police. A Solomon might decree that Mrs. A buy Mrs. B a new dress; Mrs. B buy Mrs. A a new shrub; and that the dog be relieved from next week's bath.

Quite alarming are the deaths of infants from gastroenteritis, a disease like dysentery. Doctors seem unable to cope with it, although they have isolated the virus which seems to cause it. The disease is highly infectious, and most of the deaths have occurred among hospital babies. In two St. Louis hospitals 33 new-born babies succumbed since the first of the year. In urban communities delivery of babies is now mostly done in hospitals; but somehow hospitals haven't licked the problem of preventing infection among infants as this new epidemic shows.

Miss Fairy Failing, who died a few days ago in Portland, was distinguished for her philanthropies and for her activity in patriotic and civic organizations. The sincerity of her interest is seen in the text of her will which leaves the bulk of her substantial estate in trust, the income to go to numerous organizations, chiefly those in Portland, which serve that community—hospitals, missions, schools, etc. Daughter of a pioneer banker—Miss Failing was herself a community leader whose good deeds and gracious character long will be cherished.

The chairman of the Portland Jr. CC traffic safety committee was fined for speeding in that city, which should make a lot of others who have heard the same verdict from the bench feel better. The case reminds us of the Salem business man who took a course in memory lessons. He walked home from class one night and was just about there when he remembered he had left his car downtown.

The Portland lady who put a $2000 diamond pin in a shoe for safekeeping probably reflected: "No one would look in there." She was right; she forgot to herself when she gave the shoes on a charity drive. The one who got them and found the pin must have thought herself a new Cinderella.

One thing about Admiral Ross T. McIntire's book of recollections about President Franklin D. Roosevelt, whom he served as personal physician: he is loyal to his chief. That sets a good deal better than some books whose authors peddle dirt about one who had favored them.

Eight western governors are planning a "march on Washington" to get congress to restore cuts made by the house in the reclamation bill. None of the republican members will take along old campaign speeches calling for state's rights and a balanced federal budget.

An ad in a city paper offers men's pajamas, made in England, at $13.50 the pair. If the British can sell enough of those they may be able to meet installments on our loan. The longer Americans sleep, the faster the British can pay their debt.

A California woman bequeathed her divorced husband $1 for bullets with the hope he might use one on himself. The woman got in the last word.

A good 5-cent candy bar is just as much in demand now as that traditional long-sought 5-cent cigar. Only sometimes you can get the candy bar—for 6 cents.

A wind in Texas blew a boxcar 30 miles down a railroad track. Kansas can't do any better than that with wind.

Now Salem may get a chance to ride to hell on pinballs.

Dead men tell no tales; neither do bathroom scales.

Central Lutheran GRIN AND BEAR IT By Lichty

Church Will Hear Rev. M. Rossing

The Rev. Malvin Rossing, missionary to Madagascar, will be at Central Lutheran church Sunday, May 11, to present the program of mission work conducted at the station at Manassas. He will show films to the Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. and speak at the 11 a. m. service. He was commissioned a missionary in 1936, leaving immediately for Madagascar. When the war broke out they determined to remain at their battle station, and minister to the needs of their people. Especially timely will be the message he has to give on the necessity of increased mission interest and support.

Mothers Honored At Sunday Service

Special service Sunday morning at First Christian church will honor the mothers of the church and will include a series of activities during the week in observance of Christian Family week. These Rev. Dudley Strain will use as his sermon theme, "Homely Virtues." Betty Pugh Hagen will sing "Mother" by Hageman, and the choir, directed by John Schmidt, will sing "Jesus, My Saviour! Look on Me," by Nevins. A men's quartet, composed of John Schmidt, David Bates, Fred Bates and Jack Morrison, will sing "At Thy Feet" by Atkinson in the evening. The anthem will be "Now the Day Is Over" by Broome. The Rev. Strain has chosen for his sermon topic, "The Great Answer."

Hayesville—Woman's club will hold its annual May meeting with a no-host 12:15 noon luncheon at George Strozzi's on the Portland highway. Election of officers will be held and assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Ralph Hensley and Mrs. Fisher.
