

Don't Look Now...

but... seems like Mother's going to get quite a variety of gifts today. Saturday the whole county turned out, determined to remember Mother, or else. We saw one man wheeling a lawn mower down the street; dozens with what looked like boxes of candy under their arms; several young folk selecting five and dime jewelry; one man loaded down with flowers, another loaded down with pounds and pounds of meat; others just loaded, period.

New Club... We're going to form a national club for the suppression of yearly weeks, and reserve a week every year to celebrate in. First come Baby Week, and Music Week and just after Mother's Day comes National Posture week. But that's only the beginning. Be Kind To Your Spine Week, Doughnut Week, Peanut Butter Week, Fire Prevention Week, National Buy Life Insurance Week, and a dozen others. Think how tired the poor governor must get, making all these proclamations urging everyone to remember The Week.

The Hard Way... Once we almost earned a nickel, but it was too much work. We recalled it this week, when swatting nice big healthy looking flies, that 35 or 40 years ago the board of trade or chamber of commerce, offered a nickel for every 100 swatted flies brought in. We gave up long before the 100th was swatted, and thus never became known as Salem's big fly tycoon. ... Maxine Buren
