Tigers Hand Senators 6-3 Defeat to Deadlock Series

With the Misters of Maul apparently calling it quits locally for the summer, youse guys with recurrent and strong seizures of fistic fever-in other words you fans-should be able to look back over the bouts of the past campaign and chirp: "Well done, Mister Salkeld, well done." The underlying melody's carried pretty well, throughout the schedule-a melody of kids trying their hardest, of Joes who weren't too much under or over-matched. Of course there's been a sour note to intrude raucously at odd times which, after all, has to be expected. And then accasionally there could be heard the low, deep basso which would be Mistuh Salkeld growling at some of those anemic gates which occur with irritating frequency hereabouts. But the broad picture has been harmonious enough, which means credit is due Texas well as the glove swingers. We'll all be looking forward to next fall when Harry Levy rings the curtain up once more with his familiar "In this cornah----

And, incidentally, one lad whose gonna be disappointed at temporary shelving of the ring sport is Jim Brock. The big guy has been training faithfully for the past several months, priming for his debut in the local ring. Brock, as we mentioned some time back, really takes the punchin' game seriously - and we hope he'll be a familiar figure at the ol' armory next winter. You'll like 'im. . .

Billy Bounces Back Comeback deluxe: That of Billy Sullivan who is one of the mainstays of the Pittsburgh Pirates' catching corps, after five solid years of inactivity. Billy performed for Cleveland, the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers during the '30s. Now don't query, "Who's Sullivan?" Surely you guys of any years at all remember that smiling Irish kid, sire of a great ball player, who played with the old Salem semi-pro Senators under Frisco Edwards in the Oxford park days. That was Mr. Billy, though he was a first-sacker then. . . . Interesting to note, too, that Billy and Hammerin' Hank Greenberg are great pals. The two gents roomed together while in Detroit livery and both Sully and Hank counted it a stroke of fortune they they could renew associations on the Pirate club. Yep, they're roommates

Here and There

Ralph Caley is back again with a coaching berth in the Junior A ball loop, and his son, Eldon, a talented chucker, is also ready for another season's duty-but not under Pa. For several years now the luck of the draw has separated 'em. We've a hunch though that Ralph'll be rooting just as hard for his yearling, even though the kid is wearing the wrong uniform, . . . And Mistuh Art Hurlburt of Mayflower was getting envious glances after he drew, in two straight tries, a pair of the juniors' top chuckers-Caley and Bill Amen. . . John Varley, one of the king-pins of the Salem links staff, is hospitalized with an appendectomy. . . . Thirst for athletics isn't alone confined to youths of male vintage. We've a concrete argument there for here's the No. 1 evidence. Fourteen-year-old Alice Lehman, after winning the coveted LaMoine Clark scholarship award at Leslie junior high with its accompanying $10, was asked what she was going to do with the prize dough. No lacy accoutrements of femininity, no frivolous formals, no sparkling adornments for Alice. She vowed she was going to buy a baseball glove with that ten bucks. . End of an era: Bob Schwartz, skipper of the Papermaker softballers, reveals that Hank Singer, after many years of fruitful hurling chores, will forsake the mound for infield duties this campaign, Hank's passed his peak as a chucker, but he's always been capable of belting that pill.
