Miss Thelma Wilcox a Bride

Miss Thelma Wilcox received her golden circlet from Charles Winkenwerder Thursday afternoon at a pretty ceremony at the First Congregational church at 3 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilcox and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Winkenwerder. The Rev. Seth Huntington officiated at the nuptials before a setting of calla lilies and candles. Miss Lorraine Murdock and Miss Cleo Eaton, wearing mist blue nylon dresses with sweet pea coronets in their hair, lighted the tapers. Miss Edith Fairham was the soloist and Jean Hobson Rich the organist.

The petite, brunette bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming ivory satin gown fashioned with a marquisette yoke and wide bertha edged with embroidery and cutwork. The sleeves were long and the waistline was pointed in front. The full skirt terminated in a train and tiny buttons extended down the back. For "something old" she wore the illusion veil her mother wore at her wedding thirty years ago in June. The fingertip length veil cascaded from a three tiered coronet of starched French lace caught at each side with orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible marked with a white orchid.

Preceding the bride to the altar were Mrs. Jack Woodfield, the matron of honor, and her sister, Miss Viola Wilcox, the junior bridesmaid. They wore moon blue and petal pink taffeta frckos respectively, fashioned identical with gathered skirts, drop shoulders with scalloped necklines. They carried bouquets of pastel summer flowers and similar flowers held in place their matching shoulder length veils.

Darrell Lewis was best man and seating the guests were Robert Winkenwerder and Carl Wilcox.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wilcox chose a navy blue and white print ensemble with navy and white accessories. Mrs. Winkenwerder attended her son's marriage in a black gown with pink trim and black and pink accessories. Their corsages were of pin rosebuds.

The newlyweds' greeted their guests at a reception in the fireplace room. Mrs. A. J. Brilliard of Portland poured and Mrs. Ralph Wade presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. L. V. Shafer cut the bride's cake. Mrs. Lyle Johnson was in charge of the gift table and Miss Darlene Simmons passed the guest book. Serving were Mrs. William Stortz, Mrs. Douglas Baker and Miss Carmen Campbell.

When the couple left on their wedding trip the bride donned a gold dress with acorn coat and brown accessories. Mr. Winkenwerder and his bride will live in Salem and he will continue with his studies at Willamette university.
