Bevos Here August 18

They've set the date once again and doubtless praying that the weather man will do right by 'em. Senator Business Manager George Emigh announced yesterday that the Salem-Portland exhibition fracas has been rescheduled for Waters park Monday night, August 18, after having once been called off because of rain. Tickets purchased by fans for the original date will be good for the coming contest, said Emigh.

With considerable power added to the club in the past several weeks the WIL offspring of the parent Portlands is expected to provide plenty of competition for Jim Turner's crew.

Rollin' Along

By JERRY STONE

The moods of a crowd are oftentimes sharply unpredictable and even the fair-haired home boy is not immune to his share of razzberries come his time for a miss. The 1380 fans who perched at Waters park last Friday were an average assemblage. They were munchin' their peanuts and sipping their pop an' growlin' at the game—but they were also formed into an impromptu and most vociferous crusade. They were crusading for an 18-year-old kid out on yonder hillcock -- Daryl Eliason by name, Daryl the former Sandy high chucking star who was making his debut for Jack Wilson's band. The crowd wanted that one badly for the kid -- and the kid won it, too.

Eliason had his bad moments -- he had the enemy Victorias stacked on every sack in several instances. But he didn't crack, he had the guts for the situations. Quite a jump from high school to Class B ball but about the only real indication Friday night that Eliason had just graduated from the preps was his remark: "The high school umps don't call 'em as close" . . . Talking of debuts Spokane's Wally Kramer, the northern division's leading hurler this spring, was ousted from the box in his beginning effort . . . Frank Lucchesi, the Victoria outfielder, was one of the most popular of local lads while wearing a SOL suit. But did he get a verbal belting after he had fainted Eliason into a balk the other night . . .

Want a Wild 'Un -- If any of youse want to buy yourselves a real honest-to-goodness wild horse you can do just that at the St. Paul rodeo which runs July 4, 5 and 6th. A wild horse auction will be held on Sunday, the 6th. The purchase price on the animals gives you the privilege of breaking 'em, too . . . Curt Ferguson's novel plan to equip umpires with microphones should prove interesting. . . specially in some of those "beef" moments when one team swears (literally) the boys in blue are doing wrong by 'em . . .

LA Turned Down -- A hopped-up Los Angeles delegation journeyed to Stockholm vowing to bring home the bacon, which in this case was the 1952 Olympic games. Despite the lure of a revamped coliseum and glittering Hollywoodish effects, the LA contingent didn't get the bacon. And, after all, why should they? The Angelenos had the games in '32 -- and Southern California chamber of commerce notwithstanding, there are a few other cities dotting the earth's surface . . . Lair Gregory brought up a short time back how a California scribe had fantastically attributed Oakland defeats at Portland's Vaughn street to a pre-arranged dimming of the arc lights when it was the Acores' time to bat. Where this scribe got his data is of no concern and is time to bat. Where this scribe got his data is of no concern and is time to bat. 5th Straight Nailed; Wyatt Racks No. 10

VANCOUVER, June 23--(Special) Jack Wilson's red-hot Salem Senator ball crew grabbed their fifth straight WI victory here tonight and advanced within one game of the second-place Bremerton Tars and to within 1½ games of the top-spot Spokane Indians, as they trounced the Vancouver Capitanos, 12-7.

Kenny Wyatt went the route for the Solons, nailing his 10th mound win, as he coasted in behind a smashing 15-hit attack launched by his mates off two Capitano hurlers. The Solons grabbed a five-run advantage in the opening inning as Al Spaeter and Mel Nunes doubled, Lou Kubiak (who got five singles in five trips tonight) binged, Ed Barr whacked another double and Joe Skeber climaxed with a circuit wallop. The Solons put the game beyond reach in the 7th with three more produced on singles by Kubiak and Beard plus a triple by Barr.

Nine of the Senators' blows were extra-base knocks, with Beard also connecting for a homer. Of the nine hits off Wyatt, two were four-masters by Lou Estes and Frank Mullens.

As for Sunday's games here, the Senators before a handsome 2,390 turnout, came through with too many walk-ups in the clutch as they trimmed the Victoria Athletics twice, 6-5 and 11-8, to make a clean sweep of the series. Carrying most of the offensive load for Jack Wilson's crew were Belin' Bob Moore, Newcomer Ed Barr, Lou Kubiak and Joe Skeber.

Skeber's homer over the right field wall was the potent blow in the first tilt victory with Vince Lazor being credited with the win though he gave way to Buzz Sporer in the fifth. It was Lazor's 6th win against three losses. The nightcap was just too much for Wandell Mossor plus Barr, Kubiak and Moore. Mossor, though reached for 10 hits, chalked his 9th victory. The lefty was both bowled by wildness but whiffed 11. Barr belted a five runs with a triple and two singles. Kubiak knocked in three and Moore two Barr, in his initial three home games with the locals, walloped in eight runs, hit eight for 12, including a homer and a brace of triples.
