

Bulldogs Chew Boy to Death In New York

NEW YORK, July 1—(AP)—An 11-year-old Bronx boy was chewed and clawed to death today by five bulldogs, one of which apparently had gone mad, police reported.

A patrolman, investigating the incident, also was attacked and knocked to the ground by the mad dog before other policemen shot and killed the animal, authorities said.

Police told this story: The boy, Stanley Balabana, left a Bronx swimming pool to get some eye glasses he had left outside.

Later another boy, Joseph Sherer, 15, saw five dogs running around and chewing on an object. Coming closer, he saw the boy's bare feet, chewed to the bone, protruding from some tall grass about 200 feet from the pool.

Sherer called police, when Patrolman Louis Risone, 31, approached the boy's body, one of the white short-haired dogs lunged at him before he could draw his pistol and threw him to the ground. As he wrestled with the dog Sgt. Fred Werner shot and wounded the animal.

The 30-pound dog released its hold on Risone and ran. Two other policemen followed and shot the dog dead.

The boy was pronounced dead, from loss of blood, by Assistant Medical Examiner I. Mickelstein. Risone, hospitalized, was not in critical condition.

Police said owner of the dogs was Swin Sandgren, 52. He was held for questioning.

Mrs. Hunsperger Rites in Portland

Funeral services are set for 1 p. m. today in Holman's chapel, Portland, for Mrs. Fannie Edith Hunsperger, late resident of 1820 N. Terry st., Portland, and mother of Mrs. Rockwell Simpson of Salem, interment will follow at Riverview cemetery, Portland.

Also surviving are the widow, Ervin B. Hunsperger, and two sons, Edward M. and W. Lester Hunsperger, all of Portland, four grandchildren and a brother W. E. Hays and sister Mrs. O. O. Miller, both of Osnatonic, Kan. Mrs. Hunsperger died Monday at her home at the age of 70.

Navy Enlists 9 Salem Men

Seven enlistments and two re-enlistments in the navy during June were announced Monday by the Salem navy recruiting office.

Enlisting were Richard Anthony Russell, George Robert Picken, Herbert Jerald Lange, William Ray Priddy, Robert Theodore Newton, Bert Hudson Worley and Donald Westley Straw. They were transferred to the naval training station in San Diego, Calif., where they will complete 14 weeks training. Following a leave home they will be transferred to a service school or to the fleet.

Robert Roy Clark and Emery Joseph Bunch re-enlisted as seamen first class and were sent to Seattle, Wash., for assignment to the fleet.

Flier's Body Found in Plane

LA GRANDE, Ore., July 1—(AP)—The body of Clarence P. Welton, 36-year-old Dallas, Tex. flier missing since June 9 was found today beside his demolished plane in the Blue Mountains, Coroner Lot Snodgrass reported.

Snodgrass and Deputy Sheriff H. A. Klinhammer brought the body here. A shepherd discovered the wreckage about six miles southeast of Tollgate. Welton disappeared on a flight from Boise, Ida. to Spokane.

Barred Rocks Win Chicken Contest at OSC

CORVALLIS, July 1—A display of dressed broilers of Barred Rock breed won for Mrs. Ira Lemon, Monroe, the first prize in Oregon's section of the national "Chicken of Tomorrow" contest held here late last week to encourage development of breeds or strains of chickens that will be better adapted for meat purposes.

The state contest was held in connection with the annual meeting of the Oregon Baby Chick association. Judges remarked about the improved quality compared with the first showing a year ago.

Other winners were Clyde Cleveland, Blodgett, New Hampshire, second; Ross Hart, Beaverton, New Hampshire, third; J. R. McRae, last year's winner, R. I. Reds, fourth; Harry Rogers, Albany, New Hampshire, fifth, and Mary Lee Rust, Azalea, crossbreeds, sixth.

Mrs. Lemon was awarded a silver trophy. Her entry with those of the next four winners were hard frozen and sent to the regional competition in Salt Lake City to be held in August. All of these were given plaques as certificates of quality. In the final competition next year substantial cash awards are offered.

Members of the O. B. C. A. were told by Dr. E. M. Dickenson, poultry pathologist at OSC, that the dreaded Newcastle disease has not gained a foothold in Oregon. It has been discovered in only three flocks in this state, all of which were quarantined and disposed of to prevent spread of infection.

Willett's Dogs Win Awards

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Willett, 865 Kingwood ave., after entering two dogs in the Washington State Cocker Spaniel specialty show at Tacoma last weekend, came home with several trophies. Some 94 dogs were registered in the show.

Champion Willett's Man of Business was best of parti-colors over 21 other entries and Willett's Timothy Topper took best of winners which made him a champion.

Willett has been manager of the Salem Lions club dog show since its inception a number of years ago.

Linn County Road Contract Awarded

Two contracts, involving expenditures of approximately $279,000 were awarded by the state highway commission Monday. Both contracts were awarded to Vernie Earl of Gresham.

One contract covers 5.55 miles of grading, surfacing and oiling on the Hay Creek-Condon section of the Wasco-Heppner highway in Gilliam county and the other 2.89 miles of grading, surfacing and oiling on the Crabtree-Scio section of the Albany-Lyons secondary highway in Linn county. Low bid on the former job was $147,333 and $132,353 on the latter job. Asphalt will be used on the Linn county job.

Osteopath Fails to Reverse Verdict

The state supreme court Tuesday affirmed the Klamath county circuit court in a case of L. L. Wilson who obtained a judgment of $7,500 from Dr. Wayne McAtee, an osteopath, for alleged malpractice in treating the broken leg of Harley Ray Olsen, his 8-year-old son.

Plaintiff charged that Dr. McAtee failed to set the leg properly. The supreme court recessed late Tuesday for its annual vacation until September 2.

UAL Seeks Raise In Air Mail Pay

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—United Air Lines, one of the nation's largest, asked the civil aeronautics board today for a "substantial increase" in air mail pay to be made retroactive to Jan. 1. The application made no specific recommendation as to the amount, but suggested the board act in the light of peacetime traffic volumes.

This is the first application of its kind by any of the "big five"—United, American, Trans World, Eastern and Northwest—except for a request by trouble-plagued TWA that its domestic system be put on a plane-mile rather than a ton-mile basis.

Thieves Take All, Even Kitchen Sink

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 1—(AP)—Thieves broke into Allen Brook's new home here yesterday and took everything—even the kitchen sink.

Missing too is the bathtub, toilet bowl, the hot water tank and an electric heater. Construction of the house is not yet completed and none of the equipment was installed.

Police are looking for the loot today.

Still Re-Buys Portland Sun From Sackett

PORTLAND, Ore., July 1—(AP)—Jack R. Still said today he had reacquired ownership of the weekly newspaper, Portland Sun, which was sold to Sheldon F. Sackett, Coos Bay publisher, last March.

Still gave no details of the transactions. The Sun, formerly the East Side Post, was one of several newspapers, printing and radio properties purchased this spring by Sackett in the Pacific northwest.

Owners of the Metropolitan Printing Co. said today they had given Sackett and his associates an additional 10-day period to make a second payment on purchase of the printing plant for $1,000,000. L. C. Binford, attorney for the owners, said the sales contract called for a $50,000 down payment, a second payment of $240,000 by June 30, and the rest over a 15-year period.

Sackett was not available for comment on the transactions. Binford said the ten-day extension was at the request of "Sackett" and his eastern associates, but said they were represented by Smith Davis, newspaper broker.

Publisher Fetes 50th Anniversary At Grants Pass

GRANTS PASS, Ore., July 1—(AP)—The 50th anniversary of the day he took over the Grants Pass Daily Courier was observed today by Amos Earle Voorhies, 78-year-old Courier publisher.

Voorhies bought the paper—then a weekly—in 1897 after being fired as foreman of the Oregon Observer here because of the depression. He rode a bicycle to Ashland to talk C. S. Price, an ex-school teacher, into a joint purchase of the Courier.

Price and Voorhies ran the paper together with a press which was operated by water power and bogged down every summer when people started sprinkling their lawns.

The elderly publisher, whose son now is Courier editor, came to Oregon from Michigan in 1891, and worked four years in Portland job shops and on a newspaper. He moved here in 1895.

Michigan Man Dies at Scio

SCIO, July 1—Gordon S. Roos, 64, resident of Marshall, Mich., died here Monday night of a cerebral hemorrhage while visiting at the home of Mrs. Roos' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wallbright near Scio.

Roos was born Nov. 25, 1883, in Waterloo, Canada, and had lived 46 years in Michigan. With Mrs. Roos he had been visiting the Wallbrights for the last three weeks. Besides the widow, two sons, Edward of Flint, Mich., and Harry of Marshall, Mich., survive. Funeral services will be held in Michigan.

The automobile industry consumes 18 per cent of the American steel output, or more than the nation's railroads use.

Lewis Evans, Farmer, Dies; Rites Thursday

Lewis Frank Evans, retired farmer and native Oregonian, died Tuesday, after an illness of six months, at the home of his stepson, Heral Acuff, Lancaster drive. Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. in Clough-Barrick chapel Thursday, with interment in City View cemetery.

He was born at Waconda, Ore., June 18, 1875, the son of William Gardner Evans and Letitia Savage Evans, both members of old pioneer families. Residing in Oregon his entire life, he farmed in eastern Oregon for a number of years and 15 years ago settled in the Spring Valley community west of Salem. Illness forced his retirement in January this year, when he removed to the home of his stepson.

Surviving are the widow; four daughters, Mrs. Ora Scott of Joseph, Mo.; Mrs. Letitia Stillwagon, Mrs. Lena Mae Houshould and Mrs. Leah Nell Scott, all of Portland; a son, Gordon Evans, of Portland; a brother, Dr. J. C. Evans of Salem; four stepchildren.

Miners Missed Fortune by 50 Feet

LIBBY, Mont., July 1—(AP)—Many years ago pioneer miners dug 1000 feet into an almost inaccessible Montana mountain before they finally gave up.

Their efforts yielded no precious metal. Today the mine produces heavily from a large vein of silver, lead and zinc ores. Modern drillers simply dug another 50 feet and struck it rich.

Portland Jailers Found Guilty of Neglect in Death

PORTLAND, July 1—(AP)—Two city jailers today were found guilty of neglect of duty the night Albert W. Love, 55, Portland, died in the jail's "drunk tank."

A disciplinary board of five captains, however, recommended that the jailers, Robert A. Vancil and R. T. Schmidt, not be dismissed, the maximum penalty, since they were new to their job.

Four others who appeared before the board were absolved of charges, although the board recommended they be reprimanded for "lack of judgment."

Love, found unconscious on a sidewalk, was transported by the four to the jail June 26. An autopsy attributed his death several hours later to a skull fracture and brain hemorrhage.

A volcanic eruption in the island of Martinique in 1902 killed 40,000 people.
