The petitions filed yesterday against the cigaret tax, should sufficient signatures be found valid, will place three issues up to the voters of Oregon next October 7 and give further zest to an election which already promises to be lively by virtue of to an election which already promises to be lively by virtue of the voters of Oregon next October 7 and give further zest to an election which already promises to be lively by virtue of the voters of Oregon next October 7 and give further zest to an election which already promises to be lively by virtue of the voters of Oregon next October 7 and give further zest clock. Thursday, 8 p.m., Boy Scout meeting. Thursday, 8 p.m., Bible study and prayer meeting.

The issues are the 3 per cent sales tax, the cigaret tax and the establishment of a boys' camp at Timber. Excluding the latter issue, although it, too, is of considerable importance, Bible the remainder of the program to be affected by the vote is of marked portent to everyone in the state.

The entire assessment program is contingent upon the fate of the sales tax. If it passes, the 1 per cent withholding tax ST. JOHN'S LUTHERAN measure will be inoperative; income taxes will be materially decreased through boosted exemptions; and the cigaret tax would not be effective after next January 1, regardless of any munion. Preparatory service at 9:30 specific vote on that measure.

If the sales tax is defeated, there will be the withholding tax; income taxes will be increased through reduced exemptions; the cigaret tax will be operative unless specifically killed, and the tax commission will be authorized to call a special election next year to levy $8,000,000 on property, to be offset by the income tax, if state revenue is found insufficient to

With all these contingencies it can be certain there will be plenty of campaign-pressuring between now and October, cigaret referendum or no.

The rest of nearly 500 new state laws become operative today and seldom has there been such a general application of varied issues from a single session of the legislature. In all, 594 new laws were passed; 12 were vetoed and many others carried the emergency clause which made them effective immediately after legislative adjournment.

The much-maligned and record-length biennial legislative session is just beginning to make its major work felt, for good or bad. But the immediate repercussions of its efforts should not subjugate in thought and study the all-important issues to be voted on three months hence.

By Action as Well as Word

The president's message to congress asking authorization of a trusteeship status for the Caroline, Marshall and Mariana islands is in complete accord with the responsibilities incurred by this nation through adherence to UN. It should quiet some mlarmists who have viewed America's trend as portending less and less acceptance of those responsibilities.

The three island groups, all once controlled by Japan and from which many of Nippon's World War II offensives sprang, EVANGELISTIC TABERNACLE would be administered by the United States under the international trustee system of the United Nations.

The president well re-states the policy of this country: "To support the United Nations with all its resources as a permanent partnership." Were this policy carried out by all nations concerned, world blood pressure would drop sharply.

It is hardly fitting that one city suggest what another city should do about something that is its own business, but FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, it is difficult to pass up a chance to say "bravo" to apparently successful efforts in Eugene for restoration of the scenic and long-famed millrace past the University of Oregon campus. The millrace has been dry since flood waters destroyed intake canals from the Willamette river Now the city has before it includes testimonies of healing. Readcanals from the Willamette river. Now, the city has before it a budget-committee proposal to spend $10,000 for reconstruction. From here it seems like a fine idea:

If a person were to accept literally the latest communiques from the army engineers, one might wonder what new great development was in store for the Willamette river. The engineers send word that the Southern Pacific bridge in Salem is to be opened promptly for river craft which sound one long and one short blast in quick succession. Nothing is impossible any more, but a boat too large to skim under the SP span PIRST PRESBYTERIAN without opening the draw would really be something to see on the Willamette.

Turner's energetic fire department has taken long strides since its organization eight years ago. Using materials provided by popular subscription, and donating their own time, the volunteers recently have added two new pieces of equipment to their department which now serves a new rural fire district apread out over a considerable area. Chief Jensen and his men o'clock. Junior church. Sermon, 11 o.m. well deserve a hand.

Southern California now charges that "interests" in Colorado and elsewhere are responsible for reports that California COURT STREET CHRISTIAN is eyeing Columbia river water for use in the southland, and that such reports are unfounded. It appears now that perhaps we were fortunate in having not yet gotten around to worry much about such reports in the first place.

Willson park next Monday night. Entire families enjoy the evening hour on the statehouse terrace or around the colorful Waite memorial fountain, and the quality of the entertainment has been uniformly high.

Whatever happens from now on, at least we can say the atherman came through with one of the nicest days of the ron the Fourth of July.

A COLUMBIA INTERSTATE COMMISSION

Without having had a chance to read the text of the bill, we incline to find much merit in the proposal of Congressman Horan. of Washington, to get up a Columbia Interstate Commission for the regional administr. on of the Pacific Northwest. In the last Congress, Mr. Horan was the sponsor of one of the several "Authority" bills, although his did not get so much attention as Senator Mitchell's measure which had administrative support. At any rate the news summaries of the new Horan bill indicate disposition to recognize that the people of the Northwest should have a voice and vote in whatever regional government is estab-

It will be necessary to study the bill in detail to reach any final judgment. However, the new Horan bill indicates a trend, a change in the thinking on the problems of regional development and integration. The long fight for HOME RULE has made some definite gains. This paper has never been opposed to public ownership, as such. It has never been hostile to the federal development of great river systems, projects which are beyond the means of local government. It has insisted that the relationship of federal government to local government must be one of PARTNERSHIP and not one in which federal agencies assume an absolute domination. We have insisted that the people who live here and pay the charges of power projects and irrigation works and other facilities MUST have a VOTE and VOICE in the governing body of the region. At times we have pointed out that an "Authority" carries with it an inherent danger. The time could come when an unfriendly and non-benevolent government at Washington could use an Authority as a taxing measure, as a fine source of federal revenue. In recent as a taxing measure, as a fine source of federal revenue. In recent congressional steps to curb the Tennessess Valley Authority there is a suggestion of such attitudes.

There is no substitute for direct voting representation for the people of the region in anything which so closely affects their welfare and their livelihood as a regional government.—(Eugene Registructure of the Glory, Midweek service Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. Children's hour Saturday, 2 to 8 p.m.
