The provision of the Taft-Hartley law which is exciting the earliest discussion is the one designed to keep labor unions from meddling in elections. It prohibits any labor organization from making a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election of president or vice president or member of either house of congress.

Unions raise the question: does this mean the established labor press will not be free to endorse or denounce candidates? There are two answers, one yes, the other no.

But another question on this section of the law is raised when it is noted that the prohibition applies to "any corporation" as well as to any labor organization.

Mrs. Wanamaker of Washington

Mrs. Pearl Wanamaker has proven herself an able administrator of school affairs in Washington state where she serves as superintendent of public instruction.

While teachers may have had provocation for striking, still it is not the proper means for professional workers charged with instruction of youth to obtain redress of grievances.

Mrs. Wanamaker deserves congratulations for her frankness and courage. No wonder the voters of Washington continue her in public office.

A practical joke is one thing but a hoax that causes worry and expense is something else. Two samples in the past week are enough to provoke real anger.

We are in receipt of a pamphlet printing the testimony of John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers before congressional committees. It is published and distributed, not by the UMW but by "Labor's Non-Partisan League," the Lewis political subsidiary set up to help reelect Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936.

We do not list furs of wild animals among the resources of Marion county, but some hunting and trapping are done here. The game commission gives the following list of the 1946-47 fur catch for this county: five otter, 182 milk, 955 muskrat, 20 wildcat, 71 fox, 180 skunk, nine weasel, 281 raccoon, 20 civet cat.

In Tokyo General MacArthur says that Japan has been so effectively demilitarized that without external controls she would not be able to rearm within a century.

From the train Governor Dewey and entourage were riding to Salt Lake City came a dispatch that his supporters had started worrying over Henry Wallace and a third party.

An Ashland resident is dead at the age of 94. He is said to have been the first white child born in Jackson county and the wealthiest citizen of Ashland.

Corvallis is to have its first rodeo August 2-3. Considering it is the home of the state's "cow college" it has waited a long time for cowboy competitions.
