Dayton Teacher To Aid Veterans

PLEASANTDALE — Carl Rutschman, who has been agriculture instructor in the Dayton high school for the past four years, has accepted a position as veteran agricultural instructor for Yamhill county. He states there are 28 veterans taking training now and that 17 more applications will be accepted as soon as another man is available to help. These veterans are on farms, some as owners, some renters, and others as hired hands with a goal of becoming farm owners. They are given agricultural textbooks for study, with classwork during the winter months, including some shop work, discussions, lectures and motion pictures on agricultural subjects and field service.

The new agricultural instructor for Dayton union high school is Harold Lewis of Gresham, who at present is living in a house on the Linfield college campus.
