Senators Hand 5-3 Overtime Decision To Tigers, But Cling to Second Spot

'Night' in High Gear

Funds for the "Jack Wilson" and "Senator Player Appreciation" nights at Waters field continued to flow into the First National bank yesterday, further indicating that the two special occasions will be entirely successful. The night for the Senator manager, at which time he will be presented with a new car, is dated for August 20. The players' night is slated for September 4. Senator Boosters Treasurer Guy Hickok is handling the funds at the bank.

A representation of Wilson's many friends in Portland was in Salem Thursday night and reported that contributions for the night "are extremely heavy in Portland and we haven't got a good start ret.' Frank Lonergan and John Faust captained the representation. Boosters President Ira Pilcher and Director Cliff Parker yesterday urged all appointed committees to double their efforts "so that we can make these nights 'impressively successful." Pilcher plans to call a meeting of the Boosters next week to take inventory of the funds.

Wilson informed the Boosters yesterday that he "would rather see the players get all the glory on those nights, because they are the ones who have won their way to a chance for the pennant and deserve the credit for it." But the Boosters have decided to carry on with original plans for both nights,

When you toss in your contribution toward Jack Wilson "night" you can rest assured your dough is going to honor an all-right guy. Sure, the press and various gents unrelated to the local ball club have ning run in the 10th as Jake praised Jack aplenty, both as a skipper and a man. But the payoff lies in the comments of the bunch who are really qualified to voice an opinion — the players. To a man their sentiment is: "Great guy to work for; he knows his baseball". And beyond a doubt Jack would treasure that testimony from the aids under him more than any

Speaking of the Beavers it seems that Lefty O'Doul, skipper of the San Francisco Seals, has reached the point where he takes a fiendish delight in licking the Portlanders, - enjoys whacking 'em more than any other club in the league. Such a strange state of mind-when

The few words which inflamed Lefty to the very depths of his Irish roots were: "Looks like O'Doul will have to manage this year instead of talk his way to the pennant." And, incidentally the occasion for Manager Jim's barbed statement was just after the Beavers had taken six out of seven from the Seals . . . Jack Bromwich and Colin Long swept to an easy victory over Canada.

Bromwich and Long, the former a member of the last Australian team to win the Davis cup in 1938, disposed of Gordie Mac-Neil and Edgar Lanthier with the loss of only three games in three sets. Australia also took the two opening singles matches yesterday, clinching the round with the victory in the doubles.
