Interest High In Santiam Fair Sept. 20

MEHAMA—While a large number of Santiam Canyon folk will enter exhibits in the state fair, interest also is widespread in the Santiam Valley fair to be held at the Santiam Valley Grange hall, September 20.

Lloyd Sletto, Mehama, chairman of the event, reports anyone living in the North Santiam valley from Stayton to Idanha may exhibit. The one requirement is that exhibits must be products of the valley.

All types of livestock, poultry and rabbits will be displayed and judged. A special division will be that of draft and riding horses. With the Santiam Rides active, the riding horse division is expected to be large. Interest is shown in quarter horses as well as the Arabian and true western horse.

There will be first, second and third prizes offered on all types of vegetables and fruits. Home bakers will be restricted to cookies, cakes and pastries.

Only foodstuff canned in standard canning jars will be eligible for judging.

All handwork such as crocheting, knitting, tatting must be home-made and this ruling applies to machine-sewing as well.

O. E. Mikesell, Linn county agent and Harry Riches, Marion county agent, will judge the agricultural exhibits. Judges for the homemakers exhibits have not been announced.

Mother, Daughter Are Back at Home

AURORA — Mrs. Forest Giesy and infant daughter, Toni, returned this week to their home in Aurora from a Portland hospital. The baby weighed 2 pounds.

Mrs. George Jones of Woodburn is assisting in the Aurora postoffice while Mr. Flachauer, postmaster, takes a short vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, Boggy and Robert of Milton were weekend guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gribble, and attended the Bonney club meeting held in the Silverton park Sunday.

Raisin vineyards are planted east to west so that sunshine can reach the grapes all day.
