

Miss Jean Fowler a Bride

From Seattle comes news of the wedding of a Salem girl, Miss Mary Jean Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Fowler of Salem, to Lawrence Dann Barnard, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Barnard of Seattle. The rites were quietly solemnized before members of the immediate family on Monday September 1 at St. Paul's Episcopal church at 8 o'clock. The church was decorated with white gladioli, greenery and white tapers for the double ring ceremony.

Mr. Fowler gave his only daughter in marriage. For her wedding she chose a winter white wool suit with white accessories and orchid corsage. The couple was unattended.

A reception followed the nuptials in the church parlors and preceding the rites a wedding dinner was held at the Barnard home for the two families.

After their honeymoon trip the newlyweds will be at home in Seattle at 5241 15th avenue, N. E. Both will attend the University of Washington this fall, the bride receiving her degree at the end of the first quarter.

Mrs. Fowler remained in the north after her daughter's wedding and has been visiting in Tacoma with her sister, but Mr. Fowler returned home by plane.

Little Garden club of Salem Heights will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. William Neimeyer for a 1 o'clock luncheon. Mrs. Alvin Stewart will assist as hostess. Members are to bring specimens of rock plants.

Mrs. Brand Describes Salzburg Music Festival; Sees Famed 'Everyman'

(Editor's note: Following is a sequel to a recent letter written exclusively for use in The Statesman by Mrs. James T. Brand, wife of the Oregon Supreme court justice who now heads a military tribunal in Nuernberg, Germany).

NUERNBERG—Correction — Mozart was not born in Beyruth, but in Salzburg! Apologies to the latter city. The Beyruth Festival honors Wagner, who lived most of his life there, but was born in Munich.

The Salzburg Music Festival lasts five weeks and features operas in the theater; operas, concerts and the Morality play "Everyman" in the Playhouse or in the Cathedral courtyard; chamber concerts and serenades in the Rocky Arena Festival. The Vienna Philharmonic orchestra and the Salzburg Dom choir carry the burden of the entertainment.

The programs, which are given in the evenings and on Sunday mornings (there are no matinees) are so arranged that there is no conflict and ample time is allowed to go from one attraction to the other, with a stop at the beer hall in between.

The most popular numbers are "Cosi Fan Tutti," the "Marriage of Figaro" and "Arabella." The world premiere of "The Death of Danton" is meeting with such varied comment that it is impossible to say how it is being received. The chamber concerts and the serenades in the Rocky Arena are sublime.

The featured attraction is "Everyman." It opens and closes the Festival and is repeated five times in between. It is given at 6 o'clock in the evening and lasts 2 1/2 hours, a continuous performance in an open courtyard with the cathedral for a background.

Voices calling for "Everyman" come from the towers of the Dom and the church buildings on the sides, and from the windows of the fortress - like castle of the former Bishops. If one is so foolish as not to have familiarized himself with the story and if he does not have an understanding of classical German, this play has little meaning. The plot is really simple. A dying rich man is deserted by his false friends, but Faith and his few good deeds plead for him and he is eventually admitted to heaven. Although the movement is slow and the characterization quite obvious the average onlooker feels left behind and rather breathless, as though he were running after a train with which he could never quite catch up.

The concert which followed at 9 p. m. in the Aula Acadamica, a block away, was out of this world. Eight voices sang divinely, Bruckner's Mass in E minor with a wind orchestra. Palestrina's "Stabat Mater" with full choir was rich and smooth and inspiring. The huge, beautifully decorated hall of the Academy was crowded with a completely absorbed, quietly listening audience.

The Festival has a two-fold purpose, to keep alive an interest in good music and to bring tourists to Austria. Salzburg has not copyrighted the idea.

Reports Given On Convention

Disabled American Veterans auxiliary held its regular business meeting Thursday at Woman's clubhouse. Mrs. Verne Ostrander gave her report on the national convention in Las Vegas, Nevada, and presented the auxiliary with a citation from National which means 100 per cent in all phases of their six-point program, which is Americanism, Hospital, Child Welfare, Rehabilitation, Legislation and Employment.

Over 144 Gold Star Mothers dressed in white, wearing white and gold caps with a star, attended the memorial services.

Josephine Jeths, Chicago, was elected new commander. The convention adopted during its session a blue wrap around style dress as the official uniform for members doing hospital work in veterans' hospitals throughout the country. A resolution was passed to make a National "Forget-Me-Not" week. Heretofore, Salem has sponsored the annual "Forget-Me-Not" days the first Friday and Saturday in October.

Mrs. Verne Ostrander is leaving Saturday to attend the DAV department executive board meeting and DAV Hospital Day Sunday at the veterans' hospital in Roseburg. She is department treasurer.

At the business meeting Mrs. George Pro, past historian, presented Mrs. A. L. Brewster, past commander, with a history book of her work for 1946-1947.

Mrs. Newell K. Sanders chooses her refrigerator as a good example of how electrical appliances help her to derive greater satisfaction from housework, and extra leisure time for enjoying life.

"I can make one trip to the store where I made three before, and buy fresh food that will last for a week with not one bit of spoilage," Mrs. Sanders says. "This helps me to buy in economical quantities too. Everything stays so fresh, from salad dressings, and breads, to Sunday's roast."

The electric range, water heater and other appliances in her all-electric home also come in for Mrs. Sanders' praise. "They save so much time and effort I wouldn't trade them for anything."

Each New Electrical Appliance
Is Another Servant in Your Home

- Ask any housewife in an all-electric home what she would do without her electric servants. Ten to one, she'd say she just wouldn't do without them!

Each time you install a new electric appliance in your home, it's like having an extra servant at your beck and call. You get more freedom from household cares, more leisure for real living. So take full advantage of electric living by going all-electric.

An electric range and water heater installed in your home will qualify you for PGE's "All-Electric Home" rate. Be sure to apply for it at the nearest PGE office.
