

Schools Find Difficulty in Filling Staffs

The school teacher situation in Oregon, while slightly improved over a year ago, still is acute with indications that many school districts will have difficulty in filling their teacher staffs. D. A. Emerson, state educational department, noted Monday. A large number of schools, particularly those in the larger towns and cities, already have opened for the fall and winter terms. Emerson predicted that the number of emergency teaching certificates, around 2,500 last year, will be increased to 3,000 in 1947. These certificates are issued under a legislative enactment sought by the state educational department early in the year. The slight improvement in the teacher situation this year was attributed by Emerson to an influx of instructors from the eastern and middle-western states.

Norblad Urges National Guard Support in Speech to Legion

For their vital role in U. S. defense the organized reserves and national guard must be supported strongly—by parent military organizations as well as by citizens, it was declared Tuesday night by Rep. Walter Norblad of Oregon's first congressional district. Addressing a veterans' meeting sponsored by Salem post 136, American Legion, at Legion hall here, Norblad scored the regular army for "treating the reserve and guard like stepchildren."

A member of the house armed service committee, Norblad asserted the army last year had converted to other military uses $70 million of the budget appropriation for national guard and organized reserve activity. This year's appropriation for the same purpose, Norblad noted, carried a stipulation that it must not be transferred to other use.

Rep. Norblad indicated he still considers the army "top-heavy" with brass, despite a few recent army grade reductions after congressional criticism. The speaker said the army still has 580 general officers—more than the combined number in all U. S. wars prior to world war II—and that the number of colonels rose from 10,000 to 12,000 after the end of the recent war.

Against Communism
Lauding the American Legion's stand against the infiltration of communism in this country, Norblad averred this stand reflects "not a witch hunt" but "a situation as serious or even more serious than the public generally is led to believe."

Strong backing for the bi-partisan foreign policy centering on the Marshall plan for Europe was voiced by the representative, who predicted "we will have to send food and money to Europe for a long time to come."

He gave the opinion that Russia has refused to cooperate in the plan for reconstruction of war-ravaged western Europe because "communism breeds on starvation."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Veterans cashed more than one-fourth of their $1,800,000,000 in terminal leave pay bonds during the first six days after the bonds became eligible for redemption Sept. 2, the treasury reported today.

The treasury said yesterday's cash-ins reported by department reserve banks totaled $83,880,070.36, bringing the six-day total to $521,243,894.13.

Lebanon Using Quonset Huts for Seventh Grade

LEBANON — Fifteen new teachers will be on the local school staff this year. School opens September 15 and increased enrollment is anticipated. For the past several years the seventh grades have been taught in high school classrooms but this season quonset huts have been set up near the grade schools to take care of the seventh grade classes, thus relieving somewhat the congestion in the already crowded high school rooms.

The Parent-Teachers association will hold open house for the faculty at the Girl Scout house September 11 at 8 p.m. The evening will be spent informally with games and refreshments.

Machinery for Special Ballot Starts Turning

In preparation for the October 7 special election, Mrs. Gladys White, election clerk in the Marion county clerk's office, and a staff of workers this week are beginning the task of compiling registration cards and poll books.

Although the voter registration, which ended Saturday night, has not been totaled for Salem, Mrs. White estimated Tuesday that registration in the county outside Salem came to "a light 250."

The election staff is filing registration cards and today typing of poll books will begin. Of the county's 89 precincts, 77 will require two complete books each while 12 will need only one each. As soon as the registration county is complete, ballots and miscellaneous supplies will be ordered by County Clerk Harlan Judd. The supplies and voting booths will be delivered to precincts by Sheriff Denver Young's office within five days prior to the election.
