Another Halsey "Bull"

The Methodist board of temperance uses six columns of its clippings to refute Admiral Halsey's remark, contained in a Saturday Evening Post article,—"as a general rule I never trust a fighting man who doesn't smoke or drink." The board's rejoinder itself attracts publicity and the admiral's comment is amplified for mass attention.

This probably is just another of the admiral's wild statements. Halsey has a flair for the theatrical and indulges himself in extravagance of utterance freely. He dresses himself up like a model for a Hollywood tailor shop. It's all just Halsey—"Bull!" Halsey they call him; and maybe that is because he makes so many bulls.

It was Halsey who declared at the beginning of 1943, when the war in the Pacific had encountered heavy going, that we'd be in Tokyo by the year-end. It was Halsey who said he wanted to ride the emperor's white horse on V-day. The liquor statement is just another sample of his loose lip.

Using tobacco and drinking liquor have been hailed for many years as a sign of masculine maturity. Many a youngster takes his first chew of tobacco or his first smoke or his first drink on a dare to prove he's no "sissy." He probably doesn't want the stuff but lacks the moral strength to refuse when it is offered him. Until youth can be convinced that they do not have to smoke or drink to prove their manly strength they will continue to contract these vices.

Courage isn't a matter of alcohol or tobacco; and there have been plenty of good fighters who were abstainers. Counter-evidence might be presented—General Grant, for instance, was denounced to Lincoln for his intemperance. The effect of liquor on a soldier or sailor is no different than on any other person. And the weight of scientific opinion is that alcohol impairs rather than sharpens one's faculties. Halsey evidently likes his grog but his opinion of superior fighting virtue in men who drink is of no value.

Truman No Hitler

The article in Moscow's Literary Gazette likening President Truman to Adolf Hitler is not only offensive, it is ridiculous. Truman is almost the opposite of Hitler. No one with any sense of human attributes would make such a comparison.

Russia, however, refuses to disavow the offending article. Not only does it disclaim responsibility but it accuses the American press of inserting "lying and slanderous articles regarding the USSR and its statesmen." Well, there is quite a difference. The Russian press is government-controlled in its writings. The American press is notoriously free. Even the government can't control the press here.

Also, while it is true that a lot of lies are being told about Russia, a lot of truth is being told, too. The "old bolsheviks" are still in power and we know how they got and have retained power. We simply have no sympathy with the methods of the totalitarian state, and will continue to say so.

As for Truman, he will just have to consider the source and ignore it. What we can't ignore, however, is the fact that our relations with Russia have deteriorated so seriously. Competition in billingsgate and invective exacerbates national feelings and builds up the emotional foundation which may prelude to a breaking of the peace. Our Russian-haters might remember that.

Morning Paper!

Again The Statesman demonstrates it is a real morning paper.

Saturday morning's "exclusive" news included an after-midnight wreck on the Southern Pacific and the report on the Willamette-Pacific football game.

The Sunday morning "exclusive" was the report on the Oregon State-Utah football game.

Pardon our boasting, but The Statesman is "first with the latest."

In pictures of wrecks of light airplanes they usually look like cracked-up kites or model planes, they are so small and crumpled. Small planes are safe for flying under decept weather conditions. The reason more of them crack up is that there are more of the small planes and the pilots are less experienced in flying.

A letter from the American Feline society announces national cat week for November 2-8. We quote: "Cat lovers everywhere are urged to join the society to further this great humanitarian task." We do not like to be catty, but isn't it a "felinarian" task?

No longer can we say that people "down east" can't see beyond the Hudson river. Yale university is reaching clear across the continent to pluck Howard Hobson from the University of Oregon for basketball coach. Yale gets one of the west's best.

Last week was upside down cake for northwest football teams: Salem high, Willamette university, Oregon, Oregon State, University of Washington. WSC. The University of Idaho did the real worm-turning act in defeating Stanford, providing the northwest with lonely glory over the week end.

A modern Rip Van Winkle might wake up to find the Overell murder case still being tried in Santa Ana, Calif.

State Funds Aid Available for GI Student-Trainees

Local veterans who are attending the Salem public schools adult education program in related training courses and who are saving their federal educational benefits' eligibility time may apply for state aid, George Porter, program director, said Monday.

Many veterans, Porter said, are unaware of the advantages of state educational aid for those continuing in apprenticeship training and vocational memoranda. To date approximately 15 veterans are receiving state aid in the related training and adult educational program, which began recently. Application for the program may still be made, Porter said.

Veterans are paid on the basis of $35 for a minimum 40 hours by the state for attending the courses, said Ed Taggart, educational officer of the state veterans' affairs office. Those under the federal GI bill receive a $65 monthly (single men) and $90 (married men) from the government, provided their entire salary does not top the $200 per month mark for married men and $175 for single men.

Muller Return Here Planned

Denver Young, Marion county sheriff, will leave today for Olympia, Wash., to return Armand Muller to Salem for questioning in connection with an armed robbery committed here last June 2.

Muller, according to city police, is a suspect in the $37 armed robbery of Jack Brennan, 234 S. Winter st., a taxi driver, near Four Corners. Muller was arrested by the FBI in Olympia recently on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in connection with the robbery.

Muller was arrested by the FBI following a confession by Vernon Beyers, now in McNeil Island federal penitentiary, stating that he and Muller participated in the Salem cab holdup, according to word received by city police from the FBI.

SUFFERS BURN
LEBANON—Mrs. Floyd Rudolph suffered severe burns on her right hand and leg last week when she fell while carrying a pot of hot coffee. One of the hostesses when the Sodaville Social club met at the spring house, she stumbled on the steps as she was serving.

delegation to the last convention, on the theory that they or a majority of them will again be delegates. It is surprising how that works out, as we have seen it here in Oregon. Old names draw votes. For instance the late Frank Derby of Salem could always get elected delegate to the republican convention from this district. So the scores for candidates always work with the old delegates.

In this state Judge Walter Tooze is riding herd for Taft. He has attended many conventions as delegate, was a strong Taft man in 1940. While his present office is non-partisan, Tooze makes no bones of being an ardent supporter of the Ohio senator.

Oregon has its presidential preference primary and delegates are bound to support the popular preference. But not for any definite length of time. So the play is to be sure that delegates friendly to one's candidate are elected who will swing in the right direction as soon as they can safely desert the one who won the state primary.

Senator Taft has not announced his candidacy; but it is dollars to doughnut holes that he will. On a tour such as he is making, one is in the hands of friends who are apt to paint favorable pictures. The lukewarm are discreetly silent and the opposition may be abtente. So the testing is necessarily quite sketchy. The Taft pilgrimages helped his cause among party faithful, and even the public found he doesn't wear horns. But the senator as a political reality is the White House that the path to the White House is a long and winding trail.

Boards to Mull Building Bids

Call for the state emergency board to meet in joint session with the state board of control here early next week, to consider bids for four buildings at the state training school for boys at Woodburn, probably will be issued within the next few days. Roy Mills, board of control secretary, announced Monday.

The low bid of W. C. Smith, Inc., Portland, in the amount of approximately $439,000, was received at the board of control office Friday. The projects include a gymnasium, school building, vocational work shop and boys' cottages.

Both the board of control and emergency board must approve the bid before a contract can be awarded.

Telephone Rate Case Re-opens

The telephone rate increase hearing before Public Utilities Commissioner George Flagg, which re-opened Monday, will feature today the re-appearance as a witness for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., of Dr. Herbert B. Dorau, New York university professor of economics.

The telephone company is seeking rate increases amounting to $2,249,000 based on Oregon operations. Testimony is expected to be completed within 10 days.

Harry C. Grez, assistant controller of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., parent company for the P. T. & T., was cross-examined Monday by Rex Kimmell, deputy attorney general of Oregon and Deputy City Attorney Marian Rushing of Portland.

"I also would like to know," Kimmell queried, "Whether actual services of the American company are charged against the Pacific company, Oregon operations or if the charge is based on some sort of a general allocation?" Grez said in 1946 total payments received for license contract services from the Pacific company, applicable to Oregon, amounted to $387,097 while the total expense was $415,186.

The total cost to the American company, Grez continued, of rendering service to Oregon was $521,761. Services of the American company, the witness said, included research and fundamental development and advice and assistance in patent, legal and all other phases of the telephone business.

Kimmell attempted to show that under the American company's method of billing its associated companies the actual charge might be lower or greater than the service rendered.

North Marion Garbage Dump Site in Use

Although formal contract for operation of the north Marion county garbage disposal dump has not been signed officially, Marion County Judge Grant Murphy said Monday that the dump road is now open and the site in use.

John Schmid of Canby, with whom the county has arranged a contract to operate the dump, will confer with the court Thursday. All provisions of the agreement already have been agreed to verbally by Schmid, Judge Murphy said. He also revealed that some dumping had been going on at the site for the past two weeks without the court's knowledge.

The disposal plant, situated northwest of Woodburn, is to be operated five days a week and closed on Thursday and Sunday. Cost of getting the site into shape has been met by Woodburn, Gervais, Hubbard and Donald. Aurora, which was to have carried 34 per cent of the expenses, has not notified the court of its intentions.

Disposal fees at the dump are 25 cents for small car loads; 75 cents for trailer and pickup loads; $125 for truck loads, whole car bodies, $1, and car fenders, 25 cents each. The site will be open eight hours a day beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Paper Pickup Sets Record

A record 90 tons (two jammed carloads) of waste paper were picked up by Salem Boy Scouts in their fall paper drive Sunday as more than 200 scouts accompanied by a fleet of 20 trucks canvassed the town until dark.

Because of the large amount of paper collected, some sections of Salem received a hasty going-over, the Salem scout office reported Monday. If owners of neglected bundles will call the scout office, phone 2-4117, a truck will pick up the paper.

Good weather aided the working scouts who gathered an estimated 15 tons more paper than during the summer drive. Projects will go into the Cascade area county camping fund. Gardner Knapp, camping chairman, directed the pickup.

Injuries Fatal To Edw. Boas

Edward Boas, 84, of 641 N. 20th st., died in a local hospital Sunday from injuries which city police said he suffered in a fall at his home sometime last week.

District Attorney Miller Hayden summoned city police to the house Saturday afternoon when he received reports from neighbors that Boas was calling for help. Police said the neighbors were unable to enter because doors of the house were locked.

Hayden, city police and a nurse said they entered the house and found Boas lying on the floor of his bedroom in a semi-conscious condition. He was unable to tell them when or where he had fallen, but it was believed he may have been injured several days before receiving assistance.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of Howell-Edwards funeral company.

Rogers Slates Trip to View Courthouses

County Judge Grant Murphy, president of the new Marion county courthouse advisory committee, said Monday the next meeting of the committee will be in mid-November.

Ed Rogers, Marion county commissioner and member of the committee, said he would leave Saturday on a one-month trip through the mid-west and will study new courthouses in several other states.

Rogers will represent Marion county at the national reclamation conference in Phoenix, Ariz., beginning October 29 and then will visit recently-constructed courthouses at Ogden, Utah; Boise, Idaho; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Oklahoma City and Shawnee, Okla. He will attempt to get floor sketches of the buildings, he said. While in Shawnee he will visit his father, J. B. Rogers, and other relatives. Mrs. Rogers will accompany him.

At Saturday's meeting of the courthouse advisory committee, architects' competitive bids were ruled out and the group voted to receive architects' lists of buildings they have designed and their suggestions, a meeting report showed Monday.

Architects listed as being qualified for work on the building, which is tentatively set for 1949, include Whitney & Aandahl; Pietro Belluschi; Stanton & Johnson; Whitehouse, Church, Newberry, Roeder and Lawrence of the University school of architects, all of Portland.
