WU's Trophy Ax Disappears From 'Cavern'

Willamette university's trophy ax was stolen from its case in the Bearcat cavern in the basement of Waller hall during the weekend. The ax, weighing 100 pounds and almost seven feet long, was given to Ed Averel, a Willamette alumnus of Portland, by a University of Washington alumnus at the Washington - Willamette football game in 1943. Averel in turn presented it to Willamette as a trophy for the victor of the Willamette - Whitman annual Thanksgiving game. It has been in Willamette's possession since the presentation.

Nothing else was taken from the "cavern," which is the school's snack bar, and no damage was caused. Entrance was made by forcing the door lock. City police investigated. So far there has been no trace of the coveted trophy. Speculation as to the possible abductors range from student groups to rival schools in the northwest conference. Student Body President Stuart Compton of Salem, Yell Leaders Carl Krause and Frank Washburn, both of Portland, are directing the search.

KINSHIP is the power of lineage that binds generations together. It amounts influences which tend to dissolve unity. It welds pride and affection into a continuing force that transmits family character, ideals and traditions from one generation to another.

No Meat Cheese, Eggs Pinch Hit for Meat on Tuesday These Days; Recipe Given

Meatless Chewsday hardly had a chance to become meatless before we were told we could include "extra parts" on the menus. There's nothing much to planning a meal without meat, and less to arranging one with some of the oddments of the animal such as liver, heart and sweetbreads.

Cheese is the world's best substitute for meat, sharing honors with eggs and fish. Take carrot-rice ring for instance. A very handsome dish can be made by combining cooked carrots, cheese, onion, rice and cream sauce, putting into a ring mold and cooking until set.

Salmon or tuna loaf, topped with stuffed baked potatoes, tunafish with cheese and cooked until brown and lush, hominy and tomatoes with cheese, Welsh rarebit served over toast points, cheese souffle, creamed shrimps or any of the many souffles can be utilized on this day.

My favorite, cottage cheese sausages always appears on these periodical days when for some reason or other we are saving meats:

- Cottage Cheese Sausages
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 1 cup fine breadcrumbs
- 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 1/4 cup coarsely chopped peanuts
- 1/2 teaspoon sage
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon salt
- pepper
- 1 teaspoon chopped onion or 1/2 cup chopped green onions
- 1 teaspoon minced parsley
- Beat eggs and mix with peanut butter and cheese. Add remaining ingredients, form into flat cakes, roll in breadcrumbs and fry slowly until brown. Serve with mushroom sauce. This mixture can be baked for a meat loaf if desired.

Poultryless Thursday is easy, who eats poultry on Thursday anyway when Sunday's the day for chicken?

Our big concern is when bakers have cut down to half as much crust in their pies, and have reduced the amount of dough in a loaf of bread, does the poor housewife get her pie or bread cheaper? When restaurants serve bread only when requested, and give smaller servings of meat — does the consumer benefit by finding costs reduced? Well we don't know, but we can guess.
