

Burned-Out Firms Conducting Business by 'Remote Control'

Business and professional firms which fell victim to Monday's Guardian building fire were still in the process of re-establishing their offices Thursday, but for the most part were conducting their business at least by "remote control."

Located in parts of Salem General and Salem Deaconess hospitals, a five-doctor medical clinic was making appointments through its regular phone number, 3123. Eight rooms in the north wing of Deaconess were made available by that hospital, as well as the hospital office and other facilities. The basement of Salem General hospital also is being used by Drs. F. K. Power, W. E. Buren, Vern W. Miller, S. M. Lancefield and A. T. King.

Clinic Scattered

The eye-ear-nose-throat clinic of five other doctors was still "scattered" but planning to move into Nelson building offices as soon as remodeling is complete next week. Meanwhile, Dr. W. W. Baum, one of the five, Thursday opened an office in the Oregon building and others of the clinic were making use on afternoons of the office of Dr. Frank Brown in the First National Bank building. Others in the clinic are Drs. M. C. Findley, L. O. Clement, W. N. Thompson and T. H. Durham.

Quisenberry's Central pharmacy is filling prescriptions at the Market drug store, 480 N. Commercial st., telephone 6188.

Salem Medical laboratory will reopen Monday in the basement of the old First National Bank building. Dr. W. L. Lidbeck announced Thursday.

Solons Select 5-Man Traffic Advisory Board

The legislative interim committee on highway problems appointed a five-man traffic advisory committee Thursday.

Members are Fred Fowler, Portland traffic engineer; Ben King, Pendleton city manager; Bob Glenn, professor of highway engineering at Oregon State college; F. C. Crandall, traffic engineer for the state highway commission; and Howard Buford, planning consultant for the central Lane county planning survey committee.

The committee's most urgent job is to establish a set of uniform standards by which the traffic movement requirements of the state may be determined.

"In order that definite recommendations may be made as to the construction and operation of traffic facilities for the state as a whole, it is first necessary to determine what facilities are needed to handle adequately existing traffic, and Traffic movement of the immediate future," O. R. Eckersley, secretary of the interim committee, said.

The advisory committee already is working with engineers of the automotive safety foundation, which is conducting the engineering phase of the interim committee's work.

Northwest AP Members Meet In Portland

PORTLAND, Nov. 6 (AP)—The annual meeting of the Associated Press members from Oregon, Washington, north Idaho and Alaska will open here tomorrow, with 50 publishers and managing editors expected.

The "continuing study" program for the Associated Press set up by the National Managing Editors' association and a discussion of libel laws, prepared by the Washington state attorney general's office, will be on the agenda.

The traditional northwest news-photo contest which accompanies the annual AP meeting will draw 175 exhibits from 16 newspapers. Claude Palmer, Portland commercial photographer; Dorothy McCullough Lee, Portland city commissioner; and Robert Ormond Case, Portland author, will award places in the two-section—metropolitan and non-metropolitan—contest.

Vice Admiral Thomas L. Gatch, USN (ret.), who captained the battleship USS South Dakota in World War II, will address the dinner meeting tomorrow night.

Changes Made In DC-6s; Aims To Prevent Fire

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Removal of certain insulating material and thorough inspection of equipment on the Douglas DC-6 has been ordered as a fire precaution, the civil aeronautics administration acknowledged today after the temporary grounding of a plane in Hawaii.

The action was requested by the Douglas Aircraft company, builders of the DC-6, newest and fastest of the airliners, to support its recommendations to users of the plane. Douglas said most of the work it recommended had been completed before the order was issued.

The DC-6 is the type which crashed in flames near Bryce canyon, Utah, on Oct. 24, killing 52 persons.

Freedom of Religion Found In Yugoslavia

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—Seven protestant clergymen who visited Yugoslavia found all churches being used "with as much freedom as we take for granted in America."

"There is in Yugoslavia today a freedom of religion found in no other country," the clergymen said in a statement.

The clergymen, who visited the country last summer, said they had complete freedom "to talk to anyone to whom we wished to speak, and to go where we wished, without government representatives."

Composing the group were Dr. Guy Emery Shipier, an Episcopalian, editor of the Churchman; Dr. Emory Stevens Bucke, a Methodist, editor of Zion's Herald, of Boston; Dr. George Walker genuine equality of religion before the law and the beginnings of a true tolerance," the group said in a 27-page booklet.

It added that instances of government assistance were so numerous "they indicated a general policy of help to the churches of all faiths, at the same time that the principle of separation of church and state is observed."

Questioning of religious leaders, the group said, showed that trials of clergymen or monks charged with collaborating with the enemy or with acts of sabotage against the government, were "individual cases . . . they do not in any way represent persecution of religious groups."

Liquor Funds Applied to Loan

State Treasurer Leslie M. Scott Thursday received from the Oregon liquor control commission $600,000 as state welfare funds and applied the entire sum to bank borrowings and interest.

Still unpaid is $450,070.90 which has been borrowed by the
