Rohlands to Open Enlarged Store Today

For the third time in 10 years of business here, Rohland's department store in the Hollywood district has been enlarged and remodeled, and at 2 o'clock this morning will re-open in an entirely new building at 1983 N. Capitol st.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rohland, who own and operate the independent establishment, said Friday they had invested $100,000 in the business in the last six months. The new building features an all-glass and stainless steel front—a show window for the entire store. The building is three times the size of the old store and has two floors (8000 square feet) of selling space. L. P. Bartholomew is the building architect and H. C. Hummel the contractor.

The Rohlands designed most of the interior, emphasizing subtle color effects combined with soft lighting and utilizing shadow boxes for display. H. R. Muth executed the interior decorating and the birchwood fixtures were made by the Keith Brown company.

Saalfeld Talks On Gladioli At Garden Club

The history, varieties and culture of gladioli were discussed by H. C. Saalfeld at the regular meeting of the Salem Men's Garden club Thursday night at the YMCA.

The flower was first noticed in the area around Cape Town, Africa 2,000 years ago. Saalfeld said Oregon's climate is ideal for raising gladioli, he stated, adding that some new varieties are priced as high as $750 per bulb.

Moody Brenner won first place in the chrysanthemum exhibition of the flower show, and Ollie Schenel won second. Brenner also took first place in the Pom-Pom division and K. O. Hasteley was second. In the showing of perennials Hasteley took first and second place awards. The best camelia award went to Walter Barkus and the best potted plant prize to Al Clark.

The club voted to attend the McMinnville club's meeting Monday night, when that group will receive its national charter. Thursday night a group of local members will attend the Portland garden club's annual pot-latch.
