

Bearcats Seek 7th Straight In Portland U Clash Today

PU Favorite In 2 p.m. Go

They're not by any means favored to bring it back with them, but Willamette's aspiring Bearcats will today go after their seventh consecutive football victory of the season in the annual Multnomah stadium raffle with the Portland Pilots. Kickoff is at 2 p. m., and it will help celebrate the Pilot Homecoming.

Although they have not won a game this season, the offense-minded men of Hal Moe will be the favored eleven. They have been up against such teams as Oregon State, Washington State, St. Mary's, Idaho, etc., all season and are at last playing a team of their own caliber. That rugged competition they have faced is expected to be the difference in today's mix.

Coach Jerry Lillie's champs will enter the tilt at full strength in all but one spot, right guard. Regular Jim Fitzgerald will sit this one out with a chest injury and in his place will be Bernard Burnett, moved up this week from the Jayvees. Elsewhere in the Cat starting lineup: Bill Reder and Cece Johnson at ends, Bob Donovan and Bill Kukihiok at tackles, Art Beddoe at guard, Chuck Patterson at center, Bobby Douglas or John Burleigh at quarter, Bill Ewaliko, Keith Sperry or Al Minn at halfbacks and Bob Warren or Al Wickert at full.

Stopping the aerial wizardry of tow-headed Danny Christensen will be the chief object of the Bearcats. Christensen is the No. 1 Pilot backfielder.

Grizzlies Face Sturdy Bears

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 14-(AP) California pits its heavier line, fleet backs and a wealth of reserves against the best University of Montana football team in years in a coast conference game here tomorrow expected to provide a lively test for the favored Californians.

California is expected to wear down the lighter but fighting Montana Grizzlies. The visitors, however, surprised their only other two conference opponents, winning from Washington State, 13-12, and from Idaho, 21-0.

Ready to Roll Against Pilots

Bill Ewaliko (above), one of Willamette's talented imports from Hawaii will no doubt see much of the action today in Portland when the Cats go for their seventh straight win at the expense of the favored Portland U. Pilots. Ewaliko can go all the way if given half a chance.

Beavers, Cougars in League Skirmish at Corvallis Today

CORVALLIS, Nov. 14-(Special)-Nothing in particular is at stake, but plenty of fireworks are expected Saturday here on Bell field when the Washington State Cougars face the Oregon Staters in their Coast conference football game at 2 p.m. It will be the 36th meeting between the two schools since they began playing each other back in 1903. Each team has won 17 times, with but one tie in the long series.

Nevadans Pan Aiken Statement

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 14-(AP) Jim Aiken, University of Oregon football coach, denied tonight that he had ever said or intimated that gambling interests ever affected the University of Nevada football team or its players.

In Reno, the University of Nevada athletic board sent a letter to the Pacific Coast conference denying statements attributed to Aiken in an article by Sports Editor Ben Spencer of the San Francisco News last week. Aiken and his Oregon team spent the night here prior to tomorrow's game against Stanford. He is a former Nevada coach.

He said in response to question that he had not seen the story attributed to him, but apparently he had been "misquoted and misinterpreted."

In a recent meeting with sports writers and coaches, Aiken said, the subject of gambling had been brought up "and because of my experience in Nevada, there was much talk about gambling in a kidding manner." He declared his only comment was that "In Nevada, you cannot ignore gambling. It is a big industry."

But he declared it was neither his opinion nor had he meant to intimate that there ever had been gambling elements that influenced the Nevada football team or individual players. Aiken said he was sticking by a previous statement asserting that Nevada broke its contract in its game this year with Oregon at Eugene by not living up to eligibility rules. Nevada won the game, 13-6.

Ducks Seek 5th in Row In Stanford Go Today

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Nov. 14-(Special)-The high flying Oregon Ducks will be looking for their fifth consecutive victory Saturday when they meet the rapidly improving Stanford Indians in a conference game at Palo Alto. This is the first time they have won four straight games since 1933 when the Webfoots tied for top honors in the PCC. Last season the Oregonians were first three, but they battled to a 0-0 tie with Washington State in the fourth game.

Again the Ducks will depend on Jake Leicht, Norm Van Brocklin, George Bell, Bob Koch, and Dan Garza to provide the scoring punch. Leicht will be especially dangerous running from his left halfback position if the Stanford turf is dry, and Bell and Koch hold power and more speed to the Oregon backfield. The Indians will have to watch the deadly pass combination of Van Brocklin to Garza. Van Brocklin's needle threading passes have been under wraps for the last few games while the Ducks have piled up yardage on the ground, but if the Indians equal their performance against USC last week, it might be necessary for the sensational sophomore quarterback to cut loose.

He has completed 61 passes out of 138 attempts in eight games, and 17 have gone to Garza.

Parrish Grays Defeat Cards

Clay Eggleston's Parrish Grays clinched at least a tie for the junior high title yesterday as they edged Bob Metzger's Pioneer Cards, 13-6, in a wet and oozy ball game on the Olinger grid. Bill Hanaukas' West Salems plummeted back into the cellar as they bowed to Jim Dimitt's Leslie Blues, 20-7, in a night fray at Leslie in ankle-deep mud.

The Grays iced their game in the first period when Covatt culminated a 30 yard drive by bucking over from four yards out. Dick Howard plunged for the conversion that gave the Egglestons the winning point. The Cards came back in the third, intercepting a Gray pass on the foe's 21 to set up their lone score, with Deb Davis smashing into pay dirt from the one. The Grays added their second tally in the third as Dick Howard bulled across from the five.

Football Ramsey Miller was the big cog in the Blues' win over West Salem. In the first heat he thrust over after a mate recovered a bad West Salem center pass on the four. Miller, in the second period, shot a 25 yard pass to Bob Trussell for the second Blues score and converted via a quarterback sneak. The Cards added a 15 yard aerial from Miller to Bob Zander.

The Hanaukas' lone tally came late in the final period when Bruce Wendt burst through center for 32 yards.

SHA's Drop Academy Duel

The vicinity's two academies—Sacred Heart and Salem Bible—enacted another chapter in their rivalry yesterday with the Salem Bible coming out on top, 6-0, in a close-fought and muddy fray on SHA's Lancaster Drive field. The teams, earlier in the season fought to a scoreless tie.

Salem Academy's game-winning score came in the third quarter on a pass-lateral play from Bob Funk to Don Shoff to Don Goertzen with the latter traveling 30 yards for the touchdown. A bad SHA kick set up the tally after the Salem Bible had been stopped on the losers' five.

Sacred Heart's strongest threat came in the first period when it drove to the enemy 20.

The tilt ended Salem Academy's season and left them with a record of five wins, a tie and two losses.

FROSH, ROOKS VIE

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 14-(AP)—The Oregon Frosh will attempt to even the score with the Oregon State Rooks in a football game here tomorrow. The Rooks' victory margin in the earlier game was 27-19.

Foxes Upset Bulldog Club

SILVERTON, Nov. 14-(Special)—Silvertown's Silver Foxes pulled one of the big upsets of the Willamette Valley league season here tonight as they downed Jiggs Burnett Woodburn Bulldogs, 20-12, in a driving rain. It was the first Silvertown triumph over Woodburn since 1940.

The Foxes tallied all their points before the 'Dogs could break into the score column with a pair of touchdowns in the final period.

Ray Myers registered the initial Silvertown score in the first quarter as he raced 85 yards, following up with a line-back conversion. In the third heat Jack Kollon quarterback sneaked over from two yards out and late in the same period Myers again streaked 30 yards for the Foxes' finale.

The Woodburns opened up in the fourth as Paul Jewell went over from 30 yards out. Buldog Tackle Fred Gray clinched the scoring as he picked up a Silvertown fumble and jangled 80 yards.

Chandler Hits At Kid Pacts

Violators to Get One Year Suspension

CINCINNATI, Nov. 14-(AP) Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler announced today a one-year suspension from the sport will be imposed on any one who negotiates with a high school player in violation of the rule.

In an announcement sent to all major and minor league clubs, Chandler said:

"Any club official or employe conducting any such negotiations who does not establish that he did not know, and by exercising reasonable care and diligence could not have known of such interference with such player's eligibility shall be ineligible for one year."

Leslie O'Connor, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, and the club were suspended by Commissioner Chandler several weeks ago for failing to pay a $500 fine for signing a high school player. The fine was paid later after the American league upheld Chandler and both O'Connor and the club were restored to good standing.

Bruins Face 'Must' Today

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14-(AP)—UCLA and Washington, neither of which has been very successful with a passing offense this season, figure to launch a counter-airial battle tomorrow when they meet here in a Pacific Coast conference game.

The Huskies have been concentrating on passes this week, thanks to dry weather conditions at Riverside, Calif., which had been denied them previously this year by rainy conditions in their home territory.

A defeat by the fast developing Washington would eliminate UCLA from any further championship consideration. So the locals are faced with the question of winning, but winning without disclosing too much, for perched in the stands at the Coliseum will be the entire Southern California Trojan coaching staff and team, their next opponent.

Irish Slate Wildcat Crew

Crislers, SMU, Penn Put Record on Line

NEW YORK, Nov. 14-(AP)—When a college football team reaches the middle of November undefeated or even at the top of its league it goes without saying that it has the stuff that makes champions.

For this reason a half dozen games draw the top billing on tomorrow's program over a whole lot of contests that could be just as important and possibly more exciting.

The nation's only unbeaten and untied "major" teams at this stage are Notre Dame, Michigan, South-eastern Methodist, Georgia Tech, Pennsylvania and Penn State. Kansas, twice tied, still hasn't been beaten and Southern California has only one tie to mar a perfect record. All of these teams except Southern California encounter very important opposition tomorrow.

Notre Dame, voted the No. 1 team after last week's triumph over Army, runs into Northwestern, always a tough team and even more dangerous if the Irish should suffer a letdown. Michigan meets Wisconsin in what likely will be the deciding game of the Western conference race and Southern Methodist takes on always-rugged Arkansas. In Alabama, Georgia Tech meets a rival that could upset not only the Engineers but the entire Southeastern conference championship struggle.

Penn and Penn State, with no conference titles at stake, meet Army and Navy, respectively. The service academies, both beaten but always troublesome as they approach their own climactic contest, could knock both the Pennsylvania schools out of the running. Kansas has a comparatively soft assignment against Oklahoma A. and M., which hasn't had a good year.

Only slightly less important in the general picture are such games as Oklahoma-Missouri, Texas Christian-Texas, William and Mary-Washington, Louisiana State-Mississippi State, Montana-California and the granddaddy of them all, Yale-Princeton. Missouri currently heads the Big Six conference standing with three straight victories. Oklahoma, which has Kansas, also is unbeaten in that circuit.

In the Southern conference, William and Mary, Washington and Lee and Maryland all are very much in the title running if Duke should be knocked off.

Texas (3-1) and TCU (2-1) have the same sort of chance in the Southwest conference, a circuit in which a champion seldom comes through unscathed.

Unbeaten Georgia Tech may have some real trouble against Alabama, a team that started badly but have been coming along fast. Meanwhile Mississippi State, also unbeaten in the circuit, takes on strong Louisiana State and Mississippi, with only one league defeat, goes outside the circuit to play little Chattanooga.

The 70th Yale-Princeton game in football's oldest unbroken series takes on more than ordinary importance in the east because Yale still could win the Ivy League crown if Penn should lose to Cornell on Thanksgiving day.

The Midwest offers Illinois-Ohio State, Minnesota-Iowa, Pittsburgh-Purdue, Marquette-Indiana and Kansas State-Iowa State. The third Southwest conference pairing is Texas A. and M.-Rice while Baylor meets the Missouri Valley conference leader, Tulsa.

DiMag, Mates Fooled Rivals

BALTIMORE, Nov. 14-(AP)—Jettin' Joe DiMaggio who has spent almost as much time in hospitals as on the ball field, let it be known today he played practically all last season in the New York Yankee centerfield with a sore throwing arm that was good for only one peg a game.

The Yankee slugger is back in Johns Hopkins hospital to have a chip removed from the ailing elbow.

The other Yankee outfielders, helped him cover up the weakness by moving over to assist whenever possible, and neither American league opposition near Brooklyn in the world series ever got wise.

Rollin' Along
By JERRY STONE

For three rounds the other night, Leo Turner was the Lion of old, throwing that left with the rapidity of a machine-gun—one, two, three, in the time it took you to bat an eye. That Joey Albina got a draw out of the deal was only because Leo's stamina oozed out toward the latter part of the 10-round fracas. It's clear that the well-muscled negro—if he works back into top fighting shape—should still be fully able to handle most of the middle-weighters thrown his way. When he's sharp, Mistuh Turner has class, brother, even though he is a canny user of the elbows now and then.

The Drums Beat

Right up to snuff as drum-beaters and ballyhoosts (and whom are better) Southern Californians would have us note that Trojan Flankmen Paul Cleary is beyond a doubt the finest end on the coast and a cinch for All-American honors. Well, who are we up here to raise our voices against those of the southland's organized press agency. BUT have they heard of Dan Garza? If anyone can perform flank duties any better than the Webfoot ace, bouncers to 'em—but it's doubtful. As has been repeated time and again, ballers up in the Northwest have to be twice as good to get the recognition allotted to players down in the big California schools. . . . Surprisingly, though it's logical enough, the genta down LA way do concede that Oregon's Norm Van Brocklin is the goods. Norm's "T" quarterbacking and dead-eye passing against UCLA left an imprint down south. They're still talking about 'im. Of course the fact that "Van" is a native Californian might have something to do with that (hang our suspicious nature) . . .

Smart Move
Among the smart moves of this football season surely must be included Harold Hauk's switch of Carlos (Cub) Houck from end to the fullback slot on the Salem high grid club at the beginning of the campaign. If Houck hadn't been in the Vik backfield to bruise and dent opposing lines, one hesitates to think what kind of season the locals would have experienced. "Cub" had not the heft of Corvallis' touted Sammy Baker, but the Vik full ranked pretty near Baker in line smashing ability . . .

Pilot-Cat Brawl Should Be Hot

The Willamette-Portland university collision today probably won't come anywhere near filling Multnomah stadium, but there's a good chance the two elevens will wage as spirited a tussle as has shown in the stadium this year. Both the Bearcats and Pilots are exponents of a wide-open brand of ball and each boasts a pretty sharp passing weapon. True Jerry Lillie's boys haven't depended to any great extent on aerials thus far this year but in the persons of John Burleigh and Bobby Douglas, have a couple of capable pitchers. The tilt looks to be a near toss-up from where we sit, but the Pilots, though winless to date after taking on big-time clubs all year, should possess a slight edge from the experience they've gained against the big schools. Then again, talented scampers like Keith Sperry, Howie Lorenz and Bill Ewaliko, threats every time they carry the ball, could swing the tide to the 'Cats if they happen to break loose. . . . Our guess is: Portland 20, Willamette 13. . . . Continuing our prediction for predictions with a 46 right-15 wrong-three ties record which adds up to a 754 percentage: At Corvallis a cuffed-and-bound band of Oregon Staters should rebound for a 19-7 decision over WSC's Cougars; Stanford's hapless Indians will be tough, very tough for Jim Aiken's Webfoot but the Ducks should come through with a 14-6 nod; California-Montana? Be impossible to miff that 'un. Cal by four touchdowns; Too much UCLA speed will drop Washington, 20-7, and give Pest Welch more to worry about. In Northwest conference action Linfield should stop UBC by about 19 to 0 and College of Idaho ought submerge sub-submerged Whitman, 26-0. . . .
