Ducks, Orange Drill For 'Civil War' Tilt

By the Associated Press

Oregon State's Beavers will be captained by Ray Crane, two year letterman right guard and ace line backer, in the clash with the Oregon Webfoots Saturday at Eugene in the annual "civil war" game between the schools.

The Klamath Falls veteran was injured against Washington State last Saturday, but will be in condition for the weekend. Crane earned his first letter as a sophemore member of the squad in the omore member of the squad in 1942 before entering the army. Finish Friday

The Beavers had a short scrimmage session today and Coach Lor Stiner said the workouts would be light to avoid possible new casualties to the first string. tering and sputtering Oregon State grid machine lies in the fact that on brief (very brief) occasions, Lon Stiner's bunch appear as potent as that 1946 gang. In most every game this fall In most every game this fall—outside of the USC fracas—the Orange have caught fire for four or five minutes, put together a sustained drive with plenty of spark and every part of the attack well synchronized - and helped themselves to six points. Yes, they did it against UCLA's classy Bruins, in fact made a ball game of it up to the latter minutes of the initial half. And the Stiners looked plenty sharp in that 75 yard payoff drive at the expense of WSC Cougars last Saturday. But in all too few instances do the present Beavers roll as of old. Irritatingly often the Corvallis outfit has the appearance of a disorganized unit, not at all sure of themselves. Take your pick of 'em. . . .
