Court Refuses Hearing in Accident Case

The state supreme court Tues day refused rehearing of the case of Geraldine L. Snyder against the Portland Traction company and Raymond Pfieffer, in which she received a judgment for $6,500 for personal injuries in the Multnomah county circuit court. Plaintiff was a passenger on Portland Traction company bus which collided with an automobile driven by Pfieffer. The supreme court previously affirmed the lower court decree.

don't hurry. That's pretty good capsule advice for the motorist who must drive at snow or ice. Tests show tire chains reduce the braking distance 40 to 70 per cent on ice and snow. So use 'eml But chains the wheels wan't replace brains at vheel. They are a link to safety which will help the careful driver avoid mishap.
