

Miss Stewart To Be Bride In January

Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Stewart are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Betty Stewart, to James W. Hartley, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Hartley. The wedding is to be solemnized January 24.

Both young people are graduates of Salem schools. She is employed by the state and he is attending Merritt Davis school of commerce. He served in the navy during the war.

KEIZER — The Keiser Ladies Sewing club met Thursday afternoon for their Christmas party at the home of Mrs. G. A. Braunberger. Mrs. P. E. Braunberger was assistant hostess. Mrs. Nick LeRud presided over the business meeting. The program was presided over by Mrs. Harry Broadbent. Christmas carols were sung with Mrs. Fred Rose at the piano; Mrs. Otto Yunker sang; Mrs. Harry Irvine gave a reading. Mrs. C. Daley presented the contests. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served to Mesdames J. Weigum, C. Daley, Sam Richards, Glen Savage, Ernest Savage, Ben Cloggett, Arthur Cummings, J. Derrick, W. Earle, E. Ideen, A. Goldsby, G. A. Gardner, E. S. Huffman, F. Rose, H. Irvine, Otto Yunker, Nick LeRud, H. Broadbent, L. E. Gilkey, Lois Keefer and Ruth Rulifson.

Don't Look Now...

But... have you noticed what conditions prevail these last few days before Christmas? Instead of children with glowing, happy faces, we see almost every one, with glowering, unhappy ones. Poor little fellows, half of 'em are crying as mama drags them away from the toy window, not realizing that little boys and girls can't own everything, and anyway maybe Santa will bring them half the windowfull on Christmas morning, but not before.

Our boys... We have such a very nice police force. Saturday one of them graciously gave us a ticket for overparking (well, not really overparking, just not putting a penny in for any parking) and when we happened along, he told about how customers calling at headquarters before midnight would get the 50c Christmas special. Down at the station, they were equally nice, taking our money and even finding a gift certificate for an old ticket we'd overlooked. There was even a reception committee waiting outside where our car was parked in that special zone marked, "Police cars only." People should call there more often, and get acquainted with the boys.

Off our chest... Seeing the white sweaters for motorcycle riders in the Cycle Man's window, we hope that style won't ever prevail for automobile drivers because we think we'd look awfully funny with "Studebaker" written across our chest.

Class by themselves... We like to answer telephone questions for most people, but there is a type which always makes us wonder. This person asks a question which requires a good bit of effort to look up, and when we give the answer, they reply, "Well, thank you, anyway."

Something new every minute... We asked the saleslady at the bookshop for "My Friend Flicka." She asked what kind of a book it is. We replied that it was a book about a horse, for a little girl. She offered another story about a horse. We replied that we wanted "My Friend Flicka." She suggested some of Zane Grey's books "about horses." We said it was for a little girl. Her reply was, "You'd be surprised how many little girls like Zane Grey's books." We compromised, we didn't get Flicka, but we let her keep her Zane Grey.

"I'm Dreaming... of a White Christmas" she said as she wiped the cinders from her eyes, peered through the smoke from Salem's great industrial section and took her clothes to the cleaners.

Now to prove it... we hope that all those service men who have so much good to say of the Salvation Army's treatment of them during the war years, will remember the organization during this season. The Salvation Army helps those in need even after the service men have returned home. They ask little, they should get much.

AND... a very merry Christmas to all... Maxine Buren.

Ned Burris Takes Bride At Rites

In a setting of cedar swags, white and pink supreme chrysanthemums and many white tapers Miss Virginia Riessbeck became the bride of Ned Burris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Burris, Saturday night at the First Congregational church. The brunette bride is the daughter of Mrs. Gerald Shelton and John Riessbeck of Portland. At 8 o'clock the Rev. Seth Huntington performed the nuptials. Miss Edith Fairham was the soloist and Jean Hobson Rich the organist. Lighting the candles at the altar and down the aisle were Miss Cleo Eaton and Mrs. Lyman Sundin, jr., who wore peach-pink dresses.

Fred LaBarnch of Reedsport escorted his niece down the aisle and gave her in marriage. Her handsome bridal gown was of white brocaded satin fashioned with bustle skirt ending in a train. The fitted bodice was made with a sweetheart neckline with seed pearl design on each side and long sleeves. Her three-quarter length veil cascaded from a seed pearl crown and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and snapdragons.

Preceding the bride to the altar were Mrs. S. G. Hinkle, jr. and Mrs. Alvin Boyd, as bridesmaids, and Miss June Varnes of Los Angeles, the honor maid. The girls wore identically styled frocks of faille designed with boat shaped necklines, cap sleeves and bustle back skirts slightly entrain. Miss Varnes wore apple green and the bridesmaids' dresses were of dusty pink. They had long matching mitts of faille and carried crescent shape bouquets of carnations, snapdragons and freesias.

Brother Is Best Man

John Burris was his brother's best man and seating the guests were Gordon Black of Portland, Robert Marr and Jerold Mulkey.

Mrs. Shelton chose a black gown with sequin trim and side drape for her daughter's wedding. Her flowers were red roses. Mrs. Burris attended her son's marriage in a powder blue gown studded with rhinestones, white gloves and a corsage of gardenias.

The newlyweds greeted their guests at a reception in the fireplace room. Mrs. Max Burris of Eugene and Mrs. Fred LaBarnch presided at the coffee urns. Mrs. W. G. Burris cut the bride's cake with Mrs. Robert Marr assisting. Serving were Mrs. Joseph Meier and Mrs. Jerold Mulkey. Miss Denise Verhagen passed the guest book.

Mr. Burris and his bride have gone south to San Francisco on their wedding trip. For traveling the bride donned a smoke grey suit with box style jacket, Chinese red top coat and black hat and accessories. On their return to Salem after the first of the year they will be at home at 555 N. Liberty street.

The Junior Woman's club will hold its Christmas party Monday night. Members are to bring gifts for Chemawa Indian school children.

Hunt-Thatcher Wedding Read

The wedding of Miss Gwelda Thatcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Thatcher, and Jack Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunt, was held at the home of the bride on Friday night at 6:30. Judge Joseph Felton performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gray dress-maker suit, black accessories and orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thatcher were the attendants. Mrs. Thatcher wore a black suit and white corsage.

Mother of the bride wore a plum colored dress and the groom's mother wore a black dress. Both had white corsages.

A supper was served at the Mar-ton notes following the ceremony. The couple will live at 1520 Waller street following a wedding trip.
