Wright Truck Lines Merged

STAYTON — Effective January 1, the Felix Wright Truck service will be merged with the Wright Truck lines, Lindsey H. Wright has announced. He said the deal is complete subject to approval of the public utility commission and the interstate commerce commission.

Silver Wheel Terminal
The company will operate trucks from Salem through Mill City to Detroit and Idanha. The Silver Wheel in Salem will continue to be the terminal as in the past. Two drivers, Floyd Booze and Robert Lierman, will continue with the company. Harold Fox, who has been working elsewhere, is returning.

Lawrence Lierman, who has operated the service for the past three years, is retiring because of his health. He has been in the trucking business for more than 25 years, starting out hauling gravel in one-yard loads on hard-tired trucks. The Liermans have two sons, Robert and Wayne, and a daughter, Letha Mae.

Lines Extended
Established in 1924, the truck service was created by Lindsey H. Wright who sold it to his brother, Felix T. Wright, and went into the feed business. The Wright Truck lines were established by Lindsey in 1927, with Scio added to the route in 1928, and Dallas, Independence and Monmouth added in 1934. The building occupied by the Felix T. Wright terminal here was not included in the sale.
