Swarms of young and older participants, estimated at 300, played and exhibited their sports at the Salem YMCA's annual open house Thursday afternoon and evening, but spectators were few, due to the weather.

Traffic Deaths In Portland

PORTLAND, Jan. 1 (AP)—The city picked up the pieces today from a New Year's eve celebration that police called "one of the worst" in years.

The high cost of entertainment apparently sent many celebrants to the streets, and radio dispatchers handled 900 calls during the night. Mrs. A. Westhoff, 78, was struck by a car in North Portland and fatally injured. A patrolman, O. L. Kellerman, was stabbed in the hip by a man who immediately vanished into the New Year's eve crowd. Michael Telle, 20, was pushed through a plate glass window, and had to be treated for a cut hand.

Mrs. Ethel N. Beverly, 28, succumbed today to burns suffered in an automobile explosion following a traffic collision outside Portland last night.

Local Road-Oiling Hearings Slated On January 6, 7, 8

A large initial item of business of the new year for Marion county court will be the hearings on the county's road oiling program next summer slated for January 6, 7 and 8 in the courthouse.

Separate sections of the county will be heard on different days. Requests to oil roads in the north section will be considered on the 6th, south area petitions on the 7th and those from within a radius of two miles from Salem city limits on the 8th.

Solons Probe Oil Exports

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—A senate inquiry into U. S. oil exports, centering around reports that military supplies are being diverted to foreign aid programs, is due to open Monday.

The committee has asked representatives of the state and commerce departments and the army-navy petroleum board to testify.

Much of the testimony, committee attaches said, is expected to be centered on reports that the state department has been using oil procured by the petroleum board for military purposes to supply other nations under the foreign aid programs.

Additionally, the committee wants to know if the state department intends to use military supplies to furnish oil that might be required for any future foreign aid programs, such as the Marshall plan.
