Legislation, First Aid Car Drive Occupied Labor Council in 1947

By Conrad Franzer, Staff Writer, The Statesman
Activities ranging from a drive to raise funds for a new city first aid car to sponsoring active opposition against some legislation in the 1947 legislature occupied the Salem Trades and Labor council during 1947.

During the busy year just ending the council's 44 local unions also managed to score membership increases (some even doubled over last year) to total an all-time high of approximately 10,000 workers.

Although organized labor in the Salem area chalked up something near 15 per cent average wage increase, Council Secretary-Treasurer H. E. Barker noted that in most instances negotiations were carried on "in a reasonable and satisfactory manner by both labor and management."

A survey of conditions over the past year, Barker said, show that living costs in the Salem area have jumped a good 24 per cent over the previous year. Most of the locals have 1948 contract negotiations under way now with salary increases on the agenda.

'BOMBSIGHTS' TAKEN
Theft of "bombsight" radiator ornaments from their cars was reported to city police Thursday by M. F. Jordan, Albany route 4.

Another project begun in 1947 and to be finished in the coming year is the remodeling of the lower floor of the labor temple on Center street. The job will cost approximately $10,000 and when finished will have made 10 offices available for the use of the recreation room. Nearly all of the materials necessary for the renovation is on hand, Barker said, and work will start soon after the New Year.

HELD ON WEAPON CHARGE
Arrested about 1:45 a. m. Thursday on a charge of being intoxicated, Earl Williams Brooks, 2745 Brooks st., was found upon search to be carrying a concealed weapon, city police reported. He was held in city jail on both charges.

Graduate Nurses Extension Course Planned at Salem

Opening of Oregon's first extension course of advanced instruction for graduate nurses is slated for Salem next Tuesday night, it was announced Thursday by Henrietta Doltz, director of University of Oregon Medical school, department of nursing.

The class, open to all graduate nurses in Salem and vicinity, will be conducted in the main building of the state hospital for the next 11 Tuesdays, from 6:15 to 9 p.m. It will be under the direction of Johanna Vreeland of the Medical school teaching staff.

Similar classes in other sections of Oregon are planned. The course covers the principles of supervision, in regard to coordinating the work of hospital personnel, on a broad enough basis to interest nurses in institutional work, public agencies or private practice, the announcement said.

New Year's Eve Accident Victims Said 'Improved'

Two Salem New Year's eve accident victims were reported to be in improved conditions at Salem General hospital Thursday night.

Arthur Czarnetzki, Starbuck Auto court, is recovering from leg and possible internal injuries suffered when he was struck by a car driven by Donald N. Zielinski, Salem route 7, box 262, in the 3000 block on Portland about 5:15 p.m. Wednesday, city police reported.

Jeanne Gullic, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gullic, 2305 Breyman st., was in "good" condition last night following her hospitalization Wednesday afternoon with injuries received in an auto accident involving her father's car.

Large County Health Program To Be Launched During Year

Thanks to a large 1947 Christmas seal sale fund, an expanded health program is being launched for the new year by the Marion county public health association, Tinkham Gilbert, association president, reported Wednesday.

While about 49 per cent of the 20,000 letters sent out to Marion county residents remain unanswered to date, the $15,004 already collected is being put to work on the association's activities.

Plans are being made for the return this year of the mobile chest x-ray units to Marion county during the latter part of April. Free chest x-rays will be given adults. In 1947 a total of 22,083 received this free service to determine the prevalence of tuberculosis and other diseases in this county.

More Health Films
The association's health education program will be broadened in 1948 with more free literature and pamphlets given out to schools, industries, clubs and individuals, Gilbert said. More health films will be made available for clubs and community groups.

A social hygiene education program, organized here in 1947, will be enlarged under the chairmanship of Mrs. Dora Stacey. Discussion classes on family relationships will be formed over the county, with the association furnishing the materials and supplies needed.

Many Volunteers
Mrs. R. L. Elstrom, Salem mail chairman for the seal sale campaign in the year just past, reported that about 250 volunteers assisted in the drive, 30 speakers addressed clubs and other groups, six county newspapers carried stories on the drive, two radio programs regarding tuberculosis were aired, 10 Salem churches observed a Seal Sunday and eight county theatres showed seal sale films.

Mrs. Ruby Bunnell, executive secretary of the association, reported that the following sale reports were totaled at her office this week: Salem, $9,507; Silverton, $1,162; Mt. Angel, $386; Woodburn, $715; Gervais, $112; Hubbard, $290; Aurora, $297; St. Paul, $107; Brooks, $229; Jefferson, $223; Mill City, $186; Stayton, $365; and Idanha, $113. County bonds netted $2,845, returns from bangle pin sales came to $241 and booth sales totaled $589.
