'Off-Season' Turkey Offered

Whether turkey meat will be as popular with the public on days other than Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, will be determined in the next 10 weeks by the sale of turkey cuts in eight Salem stores. The study being conducted by the Oregon State college experiment station hopes to boost out-of-season turkey sales, and will determine whether turkey growers will extend the sale of halves, quarters and pieces to other parts of the state. Shown above is A. R. Barrows, Salem route 9, box 142, left, listening to Reuben Knittel, head meatcutter at the Court street Safeway store, tell him of the survey, the free recipes and questionnaires being used in the survey. Fruit of the Year

Apples Best of All Year 'Round Fruits Found in Abundance This Season

By Maxine Buren
Statesman Women's Editor

Every woman, and we are no exception, likes to receive gifts on Valentine's Day, Christmas, or even maybe a birthday, but still more welcome is the gift that just appears for no special reason at all, just from out of the blue.

Such a gift came to us last week in the form of a box of lovely big red luscious Delicious Apples from the Washington State Apple commission at Wenatchee.

Now we know that apples, especially western grown apples, are the most popular fruit in the world, but never have we tasted any better flavored fruit nor seen any prettier.

The apple growers are concentrating on publicity this year with special emphasis, because this year's crop is three million bushels more than usual. So it behooves the western housewife to serve apples often, for her own good as well as the orchardist's!

The Delicious apple is an eating special.

Because the skin is so beautiful and tender, it should be left on when using the apples in salads. Most popular of all apple salads is the apple-nut-date-celery combination on Waldorf salad. By leaving the red skins on the apples, there's added beauty in the dish too.

Apples make dessert when sliced into wedges (and you should have one of those handy apple slicers for this purpose) and served with cheese which is to be spread on the fruit.

But all apples aren't just for eating raw. Best use to put the apple to is to cook it as dessert.

You can make a mighty nice dessert on the Apple Betty order, by crushing 18 graham crackers, mixing with half cup or more of brown sugar, seasoning with cinnamon and nutmeg and with 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine. Then put in alternate layers in a baking dish with sliced apples (use about two medium sized cooking apples). Put a layer of the cracker crumbs on top. Bake in 350 to 400 degree oven until apples are done.

Here's a recipe from the Apple Commission that sounds good, and a little different—
