Nuptials Are Solemnized At Church

The marriage of Miss Ramona Joyce Spence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy C. Spence of Portland, formerly of Salem, to Richard Brooks Beckford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Beckford of Woodburn, took place in Salem on February 15 at the First Congregational church. The Rev. Seth Huntington officiated at the 4 o'clock rites. Ronald Royce Spence, twin brother of the bride, sang and Mrs. Mary Barton was the organist.

Mr. Spence gave his daughter in marriage and for her wedding she chose a period gown of brocade satin designed with draped skirt at the hipline, bustle, long sleeves, a high stand-up collar and a train. Her fingertip length veil of French illusion cascaded from a seed pearl tiara. She carried an old fashioned nosegay of sprays of bouvardia centered with a white orchid with a purple throat.

Mrs. Donald Stogner of San Mateo, Calif., was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a powder blue taffeta dress fashioned with panier effect at the hipline, sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves and buttons down the back. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mose Van Dell, a sister of the bride, and Mrs. Wilson Beckford, who wore pink taffeta dresses made identical to the honor attendants. They all had matching ruffled net head-dresses and carried quaint nosegays of camellias, carnations and bouvardia.

Wilson Beckford stood with his brother as best man and ushers were George Zurlinden, Fritz Straugh and Walter Bowman.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Spence selected an aqua silk jersey gown, embellished with matching sequins on the bodice, long white gloves and a flowered hat. Her corsage was of gardenias and bouvardia. Mrs. Beckford attended her son's nuptials in a black crepe dinner gown with pleated skirt and silver sequins at the neckline. She wore pink gloves and a black hat with net trim. Her flowers were pink carnations and camellias.

The newlyweds greeted their guests at a reception in the fireplace room. After a wedding trip to Mr. Hood the newlyweds will be at home in Portland, where they have taken an apartment at 4148 S. E. 65th and Boise. Both are employed there with the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.
