Former Willamette Coed Plays Lead

In assuming the lead role in Elmer Rice's stage-comedy, "Dream Girl" coming February 27 to Salem high school auditorium, Terry Clemes plays one of the longest female parts ever written. Miss Clemes is in every one of the 19 scenes for practically its entire time. Three different stage playing areas are used and she walks from one scene to the other, changing costumes behind a drop or in a blackout. A maid waits in the dark to slip on a dress or a hat as she passes through, a property man thrusts a book or a revolver into her hand. There are but four seconds between each scene. Since the author, Elmer Rice, causes her to dream of herself in various characters, she must act out each of these roles and they include a bookshop proprietress, a Mexican lady, a tragic trooper and an imbibing debutante.

Miss Clemes' varied experience, however, fits her for the job. A graduate of Willamette university and the American Academy of dramatic Arts, she first came to the attention of New York producers when she won a talent contest. As a replacement for Margaret Sullivan in the New York company of "Voice of the Turtle", Miss Clemes played 218 performances. Her work was seen by George Abbot and the following season, when he was casting "Kiss and Tell", he engaged Terry for the role of Corlis. She played the part for nearly three years in New York, on the road and overseas for USO camp shows.

When "Dream Girl" was produced on Broadway, she was selected to understudy her present role through a succession of actresses — Betty Field, Halia Stoddart, Jean Parker and Lucille Ball. "Dream Girl" was one of the most in demand plays this past summer for stock company presentation and Miss Clemes came into her own playing the part for ten weeks with ten different stock companies on the east coast. It was while she was fulfilling one of these engagements at the Cape Playhouse in Dennis, Mass., that she was seen by a talent scout of the Civic Drama Guild and subsequently signed for this production.

Honored Saturday afternoon was Mrs. Ernest Hobbs at a shower given for her by Mrs. Edward Salstrom and Mrs. Courtney Jones at the latter's West Nob Hill street home.

Covers were placed for Mesdames W. Moran, L. E. Hobbs, Bud Coons and Daryl Jones and the Misses Suzanne Small, Miriam Shellenberger, Joan Randall, Gloria Myers, Dolores Clement, Margaret Newton, Barbara Sundet, Gloria McClintock, Barbara McClintock, Harriet Huston, Jane Carson, Patricia Sears, Mariann Croisan, Madeline Keene, Harriet Vanatta of Hawaii, the honor guest and the hostesses.

Mothers are wise!

Up and down the West Coast, Nucoa is the margarine most mothers choose. And now that it's plentiful, you can't please them with substitutes.

Mothers may not know that Nucoa margarine is new-churned the year round, on order only... that the makers of Nucoa refine their own nutritious vegetable oils... make their own milk culture... to insure Nucoa's uniformly fine flavor and texture.

But mothers recognize the results of this care. They say, "Nucoa always tastes so sweet and fresh!" They know that Nucoa pleases both family and guests at their table. They see their children thrive on Nucoa. So more mothers choose Nucoa than any other margarine. Nucoa's so good "it melts in your mouth!"

Serve Nucoa proudly on your table...
