Representatives of several other local groups, including YWCA, 4-H, Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts and home demonstration, outlined their respective activities with space requirements not always conveniently met by existing Salem facilities.

Similar delegations representing sports and musical interests already have been heard by the committee which will continue weekly meetings with other groups. The meeting Tuesday was held in the office of the committee chairman, William H. Baillie.

C. E. Gluesing, of General Electric's "House of Magic," demonstrating the lighting of a large electric lamp without wires,

The General Electric Company's "House of Magic" science show, which will be shown here at Leslie Jr. High School at 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 4th, will be presented by C. Edward Gluesing, who is a real magician and master at sleight-of-hand.

The "House of Magic," however, rather than a magic show, is one which demonstrates the marvels of modern science. Demonstrations are presented which demonstrate many of the ways in which scientific research is providing new things for greater health, comfort and convenience.

Gluesing was not always a magacian. During his lifetime he has taught school, been a private tutor, and served as a sailor in the U.S. Navy. A native of Wisconsin, he was graduated from the State Teachers College at LaCrosse. After teaching science and mathematics to high school students for a few years, he entered the University of Wisconsin, from which he received a bachelor of philosophy degree. It was during these college years that he took up magic as a hobby.

In 1934, when the G-E "House of Magic" science show appeared at the Century of Progress exposition, in Chicago, Gluesing assisted with lectures and demonstrations, thus obtaining experience which stood him in good stead when he later was placed in charge of a "House of Magic" show touring the country.

It was the late Floyd Gibbons, noted author; lecturer and foreign correspondent, who was so impressed with what he found in the General Electric Research Laboratory at Schnectady that he called it the "House of Magic." The name "House of Magic" first was applied to the science show at Chicago's Century of Progress. It proved to be one of the outstanding features of that exposition, and since then has entertained nearly 12 million persons, including 1,200,000 service men during the war years.

Now in its fourteenth season, the postwar version of the "House of Magic" presents a wide variety of scientific phe-nomena. Highlights of the show are: a train which obeys spoken commands, "motionless" motion, a man shaking hands with his own shadow, "hearing" light and "seeing" sound, lighting an electric lamp with a match, and many others.

. The R. L. Elfstrom Co. will be host at the showing
