

Fines Given for Violation of Dumping Law

Dumping of rubbish on Marion county roads brought fines to two persons Saturday and public warnings from District Judge Joseph Felton and Sheriff Denver Young that violators of the dumping law would be prosecuted.

Fines of $100 each were meted out by Judge Felton to Henry R. Green, Astoria, route 1, and to A. L. Pugh, Brooks route 1, when both pleaded guilty to the dumping charges in district court Saturday. Fifty dollars was suspended from each fine and both men were ordered to clean up the rubbish dumped.

Sheriff Young said that in the past week his office has received six complaints from residents along Marion county roads regarding dumped rubbish. He said that, if apprehended, all violators would be cited into court. Such a charge, Judge Felton said, carries a maximum penalty of $100 fine or 30 days in jail.

Green was arrested Friday by a sheriff's deputy on a charge of dumping rubbish on the Pratum-Macley road, and Pugh for unloading some rubbish on the West Woodburn-Broadacres road.

Street Control Hearing Set

Recent proposal from Salem city council asking Marion county to relinquish two streets to the city will be aired at a hearing before the county court on April 20 at 10 a. m.

Two roads now owned by the county and wanted by the city are Beech avenue at the north edge of Salem near the state fairgrounds and Iowa avenue on the south limits off Commercial street.

The county indicated Saturday that it favored turning the streets over to the city. The city wants control of the two avenues because ownership of the two roads has a bearing on street improvements, the court said.

Hobby Show Scheduled by Rotary Club

Plans for a public hobby show for all children and adults in the Salem area, on April 23, 24 and 25 sponsored by Salem Rotary club, were announced Saturday by Arthur D. Hay, general chairman. The exhibits will be in the armory, in connection with National Boys' and Girls' week, which starts April 24.

Application blanks are to be available soon for entry in the three divisions—junior (under 18 years of age), senior and groups—with varying registration fees.

Three separate categories of hobbies have also been established—arts and crafts made by the exhibitor, collections and entertainment talent.

Purpose of the show, first to be staged by the club, is to stimulate greater interest and participation in hobby activities through opportunity to display and compete, according to Hay.

All applications will be screened and exhibits arranged by the exhibits committee, headed by Melvin Millett. Other members are Charles B. Davis, Reynolds Allen, George L. Arbuckle, Jr., Arnold Davis, Loren Grier, Harris Lietz, Claude H. Murphy, Chester W. Pickens, G. Herbert Smith, Homer Smith, Jr., Bruce Spaulding, Edward O. Stadler, Jr., Forrest Stewart, Harold Sweeney, Len C. Thompson and L. Roy Tweedie.

Nohlgren Wins Toastmaster Area Contest

Ralph Nohlgren, restaurant man and member of Salem Toastmasters, won the right to compete in district speech contest at Eugene April 17 in the annual area speaking contest at the Marion hotel Saturday night. R. E. Forkner, Salem realtor, Capitol Toastmasters, placed second in the competition and Millard Willis, Albany attorney, placed third.

Nohlgren's subject was "Our Heritage is Freedom" and he drew first speaking position. Forkner's subject was "American Democracy" and he drew second speaking position.

Nohlgren's subject was "Our Bid for Peace" and he drew third speaking position. Other speakers were Daniel B. Bond, Eugene osteopath physician, whose subject was "The Most Honest People in the World" and had to do with Alcoholics Anonymous, William Coffey of Corvallis talked on "Fear—Friend or Foe."

M. A. Gadow, member of Salem Toastmasters and 1947 winner in the first and second rounds of the speaking contest, and George Willhead, one of the charter members of the Salem club, spoke after the competition in an entertaining vein.

Gadow discussed the meaning of various college degrees and awards while Willhead discussed "Mouse Milk" and prospects of future development of the industry. Blair T. Alderman, area governor, was chairman in charge. Ethan Newman of Eugene, runner up in the 1947 contest, was toastmaster of the evening. Derel Jones of Salem, deputy governor, introduced the guests and club guests. Irv Saucerman, lieutenant governor of district seven, made the address of welcome.

More than 150 Toastmasters and their guests were present for the program. Judges were two each from Albany, Capitol, Corvallis, Eugene and Salem Toastmasters, one each from Oregon Trail and Timberline clubs of Portland and the Oregon City club.

Czech Delegate to U. N. Dismissed, Refuses to Quit

LAKE SUCCESS, March 13 (AP)—The Prague government fired Dr. Jan Papanek, Czechoslovak delegate to the United Nations, but Papanek defied the communist-dominated regime he has bitterly attacked.

Ending a three-day official silence, the Prague authorities sent through their Washington office to the U. N. a curt telegram saying Papanek had ceased to be the permanent delegate to the Czechoslovak republic on March 10.

That was the day on which Papanek attacked the communist government in Prague, accused Russia of aiding the communists to gain control, and demanded that the U. N. security council investigate the coup.

Papanek acted without informing Prague what he planned to do

K of C Councils Plan All-Day Initiation Rite

Approximately 300 Knights of Columbus from councils in this area are expected to be present at St. Joseph's hall today for all-day initiation ceremonies sponsored by the Salem council.

Following the initiation knights and their ladies will attend a banquet beginning at 6 p. m. in the Marion hotel. Principal speaker at the banquet will be Gerald Mason, chairman of the state board of control and a member of Portland council. Knights of Columbus William Healy, assistant secretary of state and member of the Salem council, will be toastmaster. The initiation class is being staged in honor of William LaRoche, state deputy and past grand knight of the Salem council, and A. L. Elvin, also past grand knight of the local unit. Candidates and knights will meet at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Joseph's Catholic church this morning. A breakfast will follow in the St. Joseph's school cafeteria. Initiation for the approximately 25 candidates will begin in St. Joseph's hall at 12:30 p. m. Guests at the program will be members of the Catholic clergy and visiting knights including the Rev. George O'Keefe, pastor of St. Vincent de Paul parish, and the Rev. T. J. Bernard, pastor of St. Joseph's parish and Clarence Brown of Eugene, deputy, and Ed Bell of Stayton, both past state deputies.

Unnecessary Jump Kills Man

ROSEBURG, March 13 (AP)—A 37-year-old trucker leaped to his death today in an attempt to escape from an out-of-control truck that came to a safe stop a few minutes later.

The victim was Edwin Louis Fuchs, of Tacoma, Wash. State police said Fuchs jumped as his truck, its brakes apparently failing, rolled down down a Pacific highway grade 37 miles south of here. Edwin Thompson, Tacoma, co-driver who was at the wheel at the time, stayed in the truck and brought it to a safe stop 300 yards further along. He ran back and found his co-worker dead, killed outright by the jump.

Farm Forestry Plans Revised

Complete reorganization of the farm forestry program of the state is now under way and when in operation will make technical forestry advice available not only to all farm woodlands and owners in the state and association units but also to small timber tract owners when such assistance is desired. Under the new program two additional farm forestry units would be added to the Willamette Valley unit, making four in that area. One would be stationed at Oregon City, two at Salem and one at Eugene. The work would continue to be in cooperation with the forest service under the terms of the Norris-Doxey act but with a change in administrative procedure.
