

Lewis Worden, Judge, Arrives For Dog Show

Lewis S. Worden, nationally recognized dog show judge from New Jersey, arrived in Salem Thursday in advance of the 11th annual all-breed dog show which opens in the local armory at 9:30 a. m. Friday under auspices of the Salem Lions club and the Dog fanciers association of Oregon.

Worden, who last month judged a big dog show in Madison Square Garden, will return east from here next week to judge a New Jersey show, then will come west again for two dog shows in Colorado next month.

Some 425 dogs of about 50 breeds will be judged by Worden in the two-day dog show, all events of which are to be conducted in the armory. Tickets will be available at the armory entrance. Worden voiced high praise for the local dog show Thursday when he was introduced to the Salem Lions club at a Marion hotel luncheon by J. H. Willett, local chairman for the show. Also introduced was Frank Bell, Salem dog fancier, who will be show superintendent.

Toy dogs, working dogs and terriers will be judged in that order Saturday between 9:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Obedience trials are scheduled for 7 p. m. On Sunday, hunting, non-sporting and sporting dogs will be judged between 9:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. when final variety classes and best brace competition will be judged.

Salem Lions club members will assemble at the armory at 8:30 this evening to put up benches and otherwise prepare the building for the show.

At the Lions luncheon yesterday, a forest conservation movie in color, "Green Harvest," was shown by Ed Lewis of the Hollywood Lions club.

Supreme Court To Set Appeal in Broadhurst Case

Data for hearing the appeal case of Gladys Broadhurst, under life penitentiary sentence for the part she played in the slaying of her husband, Malheur county rancher more than a year ago, will be set by the state supreme court here shortly after April 10.

Time for appellants to file their brief in the case recently was extended to early in April. The supreme court hearing will be held in Salem instead of in Pendleton as originally announced. Mrs. Broadhurst has been in the penitentiary here since shortly after she was sentenced in the Malheur county court.

She was accused of first-degree murder.

Steckley left Salem Thursday to return to his station aboard the light cruiser U.S.S. Helena, Muir, who received his basic training at Lackland air base, San Antonio, Tex., will leave today for Rapid City, S.D., where he will be stationed at Weaver air base.

Both Steckley and Muir were Oregon Statesman carriers a few years ago.

Oregon Ranks High in Navy Recruit Drive

Portland navy recruiting station (including the Salem station) ranks ninth among 43 major recruiting stations for the U. S. navy, it is shown by a new compilation of recruiting results for the seven months period ending Jan. 31, 1948.

CPO P. A. Raney, local recruiting chief, this week received a summary showing Portland station made 103.5 per cent of its quota of 750 recruits, and for the same period the western states recruiting area was second among eight such areas in the country with 106 per cent.

Raney pointed out, however, that despite this record in the west, and similar quota-exceeding results in the south, the nationwide navy recruiting program is behind quotas. In the seven months period only 72.3 per cent of the general navy quota for first enlistments was attained. The quota was 75,000.
