

Seen and Heard...

By JERYME ENGLISH

TRAVEL TIME . . . Comes spring and the urge to pack one's bags and set out on a leisurely trip cross-country or even make plans for cruises in southern waters . . . Quite a few Salem folk are setting out this week on pleasure trips . . . One of the most delightful trips we've heard of is the Aladdin Garden tour which Mrs. Prince W. Byrd and daughter, Betty, are taking . . . They enter tonight for San Francisco to join the tour . . . From the bay city they head for New Orleans and Baton Rouge to view the gardens and in Natchez, Miss., will visit famous old homes for three days . . . Also included in their itinerary will be Mobile, Alabama, where they will see the Bellingrath Garden, a tour from Jacksonville up the coast to Savannah . . . In Charleston, S. C., they will see three of the most famous gardens, Middleton, Cypress and Magnolia . . . From there they will go to Williamsburg, Richmond and Washington, D. C., to view the historic sites . . . The tour ends in New York, where the Byrds plan to spend a week . . . Before coming west the Salem travelers will visit in Boston and go up to Niagara Falls, and to Quebec, Montreal and Toronto . . . then down to Chicago and home on the Empire Builder . . .

Headed east . . . Mrs. A. A. Siewert leaves Monday by train for Philadelphia for an extended visit with her daughter, Beth, who went east in the fall to continue with her vocal work . . . Beth now has her apartment furnished and ready for her mother's visit . . . She just hopes the cold weather and snow clears up before she arrives . . . While in the east Mrs. Siewert and her daughter plan trips to New York, Boston and Atlantic City . . . She plans to be away several months . . .

Also east bound . . . will be Richard and Kay Chambers, who leave Friday by plane for Chicago . . . from there they will go to Detroit to pick up their new car . . . They will visit in New York City, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia on the east coast . . . however, their main stop will be at Pawtucket, Rhode Island, where they will visit with Kay's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Rademacher, who are residing there while he is attending Boston university . . . The travelers will drive down the east coast from Rhode Island, go the southern route over to New Orleans, Texas, New Mexico and the Carlsbad Caverns . . . They will head for home in a month by way of the Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City and Reno . . .

To cruise . . . along the east coast of South America will be former governor A. W. Norblad and Mrs. Norblad of Astoria, who left Wednesday for New York City, when they will sail on the S. S. Uruguay on March 26 for a 38 day cruise . . . They'll go ashore at the ports of Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Montevideo, Buenos Aires and Trinidad . . . When they get back to the states they will stop off in Washington, D. C., to see their son and family, Congressman and Mrs. Walter Norblad . . .

SATURDAY'S MARRIAGE . . . Perfect in all details was the wedding of Helen Shepard and George Alexander at high noon . . . St. Paul's Episcopal church filled with guests . . . some even standing . . . Even though the weather man didn't turn on his sunny smile, midday wore her best hat and tucker . . . A beautiful sight to see the many flowered trimmed hats and gay costumes from the back of the church, just like a flower garden . . .

Here they come! . . . the handsome young ushers . . . the six pretty bridesmaids in their lettuce green frocks and poke bonnets tied in pink velvet . . . and the honor maid, petite Sallie Doran, in a white dress and her bonnet tied with violet ribbon . . . oh and ah for adorable Susan Shepard in her white frock and pink poke bonnet and wearing tiny white gloves . . . and the little candle girls, Sydney Shepard and Michael Waterman, in darling pink ballerina frocks with poke bonnets and pink satin ball slippers . . . Breathtaking was but . . . we were looking at a style magazine only a few months old, BNL in fact, and we didn't realize how much of a change has taken place. Look at a Vogue of last spring and see, and gasp.

Shah, sphish! . . . There's something strangely subversive about the way the weatherman has been acting lately, and we think he bears investigation. Even good old reliable rainy Oregon weather can't be depended upon. Now you know, no well-mannered American weatherman would do the things that have been done this year. We bet he's a Red.

Alpha and Omega . . . Looking over a group of women wearing hats last week, we came to the conclusion that there is no middle of the road in women's chapeaux, they are either completely dizzy or disgustingly uninteresting.

Times has changed . . . It used to be, when we smelled the paper mill it was going to rain. Now when we smell the paper mill its so smoky we can't tell if its raining or not.

Chambers of Commerce please note . . . We hope our millions of readers up and down the coast will take notice of this, our thought provoking statement for the day. A simple and effective way to put small towns in the public eye would be to see that at least one building has the town's name atop it for the edification of the flying public. When we travel by air (and it's not half often enough) we want to see the scenery and note the towns under us. Not one in a dozen is identifiable from the air by the lay flyer, including Salem.

Full tilt . . . Looking at the General Federation Clubwoman, a national magazine for members of the Women's clubs, we find a story titled "Let's See America and Meet in Portland" and it suggests seeing America enroute to the National Convention in May in Portland. There are photos of Banff, Lake Louise, Grand Canyon, Mormon Temple, Canadian Rockies, California's coast, California's mountains, California's Yosemite Falls. We wonder if they know that Oregon has Willowa Lake, Oregon has some mighty nice mountains, Oregon has a coast, Oregon has Crater lake and Oregon has some falls. Furthermore, Oregon's falls have water in them, unlike Yosemite when we saw it a few years ago. And this brings us to wondering if Yosemite will be turned on even for the National Federation of Women's club's special tour this year. Silver Creek falls and Multnomah will be we bet.

Speaking of Falls . . . That feather in our new spring bonnet will be our undoing yet. It whisks along the top of our little car as we drive and last Sunday as we stopped to pick up something we dropped in church, it fell completely off. What do nice average sized women do with hats with tall feathers? Maybe they are used to having something above their ears . . .

If You-yes come . . . can spring be far behind? . . . Maxine Buren the bride, tall and beautiful, in her blush pink satin gown and matching lace mantilla . . . the gown had been worn by the Emil Sicks three daughters and Mrs. William McGlichrist, jr. purchased the lace mantilla when she was in Barcelona . . . The bride's sheaf like bouquet of pink camellias and ribbon . . . later caught by Charlotte Alexander as the newlyweds dashed away on their honeymoon . . . the bridesmaids all outside waiting for the throw . . . yellow orchids were pinned to the bride's going away suit . . .

At the reception . . . the lovely Floyd Shepard home the setting . . . The decor . . . gorgeous arrangements of plum blossoms about the rooms . . . the bride's table covered with a white organically cloth and garlanded with smilax, caught at the corners with tiny nosegays of violets and pink bouvardia . . . The tiered cake encircled with smilax, bouvardia and violets . . . and nosegays of the flowers tied to the silver branch candelabras . . . A steady stream of guests waiting to felicitate the radiant newlyweds . . .

A toast . . . to the bride and groom by Emil Sicks . . . his charming wife, who sang, smartly dressed in a brown faille suit with white trim, white chapeau and white orchid . . . The Sicks are en route home to Seattle after a sojourn in Phoenix and California . . . Many down from Seattle for the occasion . . . The Stephen Chadwicks . . . she in a smart navy blue ensemble, white hat and white orchid . . . Mrs. Joslyn Waterman chic in a beige wool jersey outfit with white pique trim and matching chapeau . . . Mrs. William Mulligan of Portland, formerly of Seattle, wearing a leaf green suit with violet flowered hat and violets pinned to the lapel of her suit . . . Mrs. George Stackman in beige with black hat was up from San Francisco . . . also from Seattle the Earl Doran, William Mackies and the Gordon Macaulays of Portland . . .

On the patio . . . where punch was served by the ushers . . . A popular place for everyone to meet . . . much buzzing conversation and hellos . . . More from out-of-town and greeting old friends . . . The Ronald Frizzells down from Seattle, she stunning in a princess style black silk ensemble and matching milan straw hat with large heart shaped crown . . . Mrs. Stella Cutlip of darling in their identical yellow coats and white gloves . . . Mrs. Thomas Holman choosing a black horsehair braid hat . . . Pink and blue cornflowers on the brim of Jeanne Foster's black hat . . . A pink rose in the center of Mrs. F. B. Langdon's chapeau . . . and Mrs. William McGlichrist, jr. in a handsome black gown with diagonal inset on the bodice of blue embellished with sequins and a black straw with fuchsia ribbon trim and flowers in shades of blue and fuchsia . . . and we must mention the mothers who were stunning in their gowns and wearing gorgeous orchids . . . A wedding long to be remembered . . .

Coo's Bay striking in a brown satin gown and beige hat with maline and flowered crown . . . Mrs. Wayne Hadley her daughter, Eileen, who was too excited to eat before she left for the wedding . . . Kit Carson with her mother, Mrs. Harry Carson, jr. . . The Gregory Lancaster's boy taking it all in . . .

Costume notes . . . Mrs. Velma Farmer a picture in her copper satin suit and pink open crown hat . . . Jeanne Busick in a mint green silk with pink hat . . . her mother, Mrs. William J. Busick in a black full skirted suit and pink flowered hat . . . Mrs. Roy S. Keene and daughter, Madeleine, over from Corvallis . . . the latter's black hat encircled with pink roses on the brim . . . Mrs. Carl Nelson distinctive in a navy blue ensemble, sable furs and beige straw enhanced with maline in a light cinnamon shade . . .

The Sons of Union Veterans and auxiliary have postponed their meeting to Tuesday, March 30, when they will have a 6:30 o'clock no-host dinner at the home of Mrs. Lura Tandy . . .
