Court Upholds City Conviction Of Harry Read

A Salem municipal court ruling of last year which found Harry B. Read, manager of Salem Electric cooperative, guilty of violating a city ordinance regarding electric wire installations, was upheld in Marion county circuit court Monday.

Circuit Judge E. M. Page ruled that Read was guilty of installing a wire over a public street without a permit in violation of a city ordinance and ordered that Municipal Judge W. W. McKinney's original fine of $150 be imposed on Read.

Judge Page found the ordinance valid. The municipal court action took place last September 6 and Read immediately appealed to the higher court.

A municipal court jury acquitted Read and two of his line mates of later charges of violating the same ordinance, and a fourth charge against Read was dismissed in municipal court in January of this year.

Rex Kimmell, assistant attorney general, will discuss Army Day and the Freedom Train in the featured speech of the meeting.

Dahlquist Scores Chinese Reds In Chamber Talk; Freedom Train Head Urges Adult Rededication

Chinese communists have no authority to agree to anything that would maintain peace in their country — they take their orders from Moscow, Lt. Col. Frederick C. Dahlquist told the Salem Chamber of Commerce Monday.

Colonel Dahlquist, commander of the Oregon army recruiting district, spent seven months in Mongolia as head of a peace mission dispatched by Secretary of State George Marshall. The "cease firing" truce was charged with effecting true agreements to stop hostilities, but "every single negotiation to arrive at peace was vetoed" by last-minute objections from the communists, he said.

Communists in the orient cannot understand why the United States is not more sympathetic to their efforts to secure free education, suffrage, equal taxation and other reforms for "the little people," the colonel explained, but he added, the "little people of China are being fooled" because the hidden motives of communism are not their expressed intentions.

Colonel Dahlquist's address, a forerunner of Tuesday's Army day observance, was cut short by time but he later expressed the opinion that the American people should give more support to Chiang Kai-Shek's government because, despite criticism of corruption and inefficiency, it is a republican form of government compatible with that of the U.S. and is the legal government of China.

Preceding the army officer's address Walter H. O'Brien, representing the American Heritage foundation which sponsors the Freedom Train, recounted his experiences aboard the train as it makes its journey to more than 300 cities. He assured the chamber that there is no political partisanship involved in the foundation's program and urged active participation in Rededication week.

O'Brien emphasized that the rededication program is largely directed to adults because "this generation has messed up the world and this generation should clean up the mess . . . otherwise the children may not be heirs to the American heritage documents aboard the Freedom Train." O'Brien, train director, was introduced by Dave Hoss, chairman of the mayor's Freedom Train committee. Colonel Dahlquist was presented by Lt. Col. Howard E. Heliessen of the local army recruiting office.

Scout Leaders At Camporee

Approximately 154 Boy Scout patrol leaders and adult leaders, representing 26 troops in the Cascade area council, attended a patrol leaders camporee Saturday and Sunday at the Pleasant Grove Presbyterian campsite near West Stayton.

Purpose of the camporee, Council Executive Gordon Gilmore said, was to prepare leaders to return to their own districts and conduct camporees in each district.

Sea Scout Ship Willamette of Salem, with Skipper Ted Roake in charge, acted as service patrol and maintained camp headquarters.

A discussion on camp practices was led by Jack Rhodes, Richard Wyatt, Kenneth Molver and Jerry Scott, all council leaders.

Officials Seek Raw Materials

Clay Cochran, manager of Salem Chamber of Commerce, and Arch Metzger of the Columbia Metals fertilizer plant in Salem, went to Seattle Monday night in an effort to acquire additional raw materials for the fertilizer operations.

The fertilizer plant has been virtually closed for several weeks due to lack of materials.

Cochran and Metzger while in Seattle will contact senators and representatives who are to meet Thursday to consider export licensing controls, with a view both to limiting export of materials needed for the Salem operation and to obtaining aid in having whatever is available diverted here.

PEACE is a guy named "JONES"

He's neither diplomat nor statesman. But without him, diplomacy would be a one-way street. And statesmanship, a beggar's feeble pleadings.

For he is what lends firmness to our international policy. He is the "strong right arm" of a people determined to live in peace with the rest of the world. He is "Pfc. Jones"—the man behind the man at the peace table.

You'll find him in the ranks of our 100% volunteer Army, in the National Guard, in the Organized Reserve Corps and in school and college R.O.T.C. units.

And on Army Day—April 6—you can salute him for the contribution he is making to World Peace.

That's the day these fine organizations go on review. By visiting the Army Day exhibits and events planned for your community, you can show Pfc. Jones that you are interested—and appreciative.
